Government Cuts Margin For Stock Credit Buying

Slash Expected To Give Market Shot In The Arm

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government moved Monday to pump new life into the stock market by cutting "margin" — the amount of cash needed to buy shares on credit — from 70 to 50 per cent.

The Federal Reserve Board announced that the change would be effective Tuesday.

The decision was made public after the New York and American Stock Exchanges had closed for the day, but while West Coast markets were still open. There prices jumped sharply.

Margin requirements were first established in 1934, in the aftermath of the Wall St. crash. "For the purpose of preventing excessive use of credit for the purchase or carrying of securities." It has stood at 70 since July 28, 1960.

Increased Buying Expected

Monday's actions means that stockbuyers need only make a cash down payment of 50 per cent of the price of a stock they want brokers to buy, a move that is expected to spur buying after the recent wave of selling.

Reaction in the financial world was immediate and favorable. Keith Funston, president of the New York Stock Exchange, said it was a "welcome move." A Wall Street trader, Martin Gilbert of Van Alstyne, Noel & Co., said this was "the kind of news Wall Street has been waiting for."

Gilbert predicted it would further accelerate the gains which have been made in the market recently. Monday prices of leading stocks turned upward in moderate trading, and at the close Dow Jones industrials stood at 580.82, up 4.65.

White House Conference

After the announcement was made, Federal Reserve Board Chairman William McChesney Martin and other top administration officials went to the White House for a conference with President Kennedy. Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon and Budget Director David Bell also were present for what was described as a regular periodic discussion of economic matters.

The change in the so-called margin requirement was approved by the federal reserve's board of governors.

The board said in a brief announcement that it "took into account a sharp reduction in stock market credit in recent weeks and the abatement in speculative psychology" after the stock market began to fall.

Boat Gas Tax Hike Endorsed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A two-cent a gallon boost in federal taxes on gasoline for boats, with the money to be channeled into purchase of new sites for recreation, won approval Monday of the House Ways & Means Committee.

This marked the first step toward enactment of an administration program under which user fees and the gasoline tax would help pay for a sharp increase in the federal purchase of land to meet growing public demand for outdoor recreation facilities.

The legislation's chances for passage this year brightened when the administration last month jettisoned a provision which had aroused a storm of protest. The deleted provision would have levied a tax of $5 a year on pleasure boats of 14 feet, with higher taxes imposed on longer boats.

Algeria's Premier Asks Support, Unity

ALGIERS (AP) — Premier Ben Youssef ben Khedda called on the Algerian people Monday to rally behind his dissension-torn regime and restore the unity that helped win independence from France. The moderate nationalist leader and two of his ministers spoke in Arabic to 15,000 supporters in the Algiers Sports Stadium at the first big political meeting since French rule ended in Algeria six days ago.

The speeches, relayed by Radio Algiers, made no direct reference to Ben Khedda's quarrel with dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed ben Bella. But all stressed the need for unity.

Ben Bella arrived in Rabat, Morocco, from Egypt and went into conference with Ben Khedda's emissaries, Information Minister Mohammed Yazid and Minister of State Rabah Bitat.

There was no immediate indication whether Yazid and Bitat were authorized to make commitments on Ben Khedda's behalf, but one official in Algiers said: "You can assume they will have no difficulty in reaching an understanding."

Ben Khedda, Deputy Premier Belkacem Krim and State Minister Hocine Ait Ahmed received a tumultuous welcome from the sports stadium crowd.

The premier's speech contained none of the bitter attacks against "military adventurers" and the politically ambitious which featured his arrival statement at Algiers airport when he returned July 3 from his Tunisian exile.

In Oran, meanwhile, atrocity stories and rumors were rampant as more and more Europeans fled Algeria by air and sea.

Without exception the rumors tended to discredit the new Moslem state and to undermine further the Europeans' confidence in their future in Algeria.

The Europeans, still shaken by the bloody street battle of July 5, when 104 persons were killed,

Communication Satellite Launch Scheduled Today

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Rocket, payload and tracking stations were reported ready for scheduled launching of a Telstar satellite which could be the first step toward a world wide space communications network.

If the 34-inch sphere is successful, it could produce the first live transatlantic television broadcasts.

Charles P. Smith, Telstar project manager for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, commented Monday that "Everything looks go for the launch."

Before dawn Tuesday, a finely tuned three-stage Thor-Delta rocket is scheduled to boost the 170-pound Telstar toward an elliptical orbit ranging from 575 to 3,450 miles high. The rocket, a product of Douglas Aircraft Co., has a record of nine straight successful

Test Enlivens Communists' "Peace" Meet

Americans Given "Atom-Maniac" Tag At Kremlin Session

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist-run World Peace Congress opened in the Kremlin Monday and exploded almost as violently as an H-bomb when it heard about the American thermonuclear space shot high above the Pacific.

The 2,000 delegates, who had been listening to a droning series of typical opening-day speeches, suddenly came to life. The congress had found its focus—all-out denunciation of the American test and blasts at Americans as "atom - maniacs," "imperialists," and "warmongers."

The Soviet sponsors were frankly gleeful at this chance to channel the delegates' antiwar feeling directly against the United States. "It's a gift to the congress," said Georgi A. Zhukov, Pravda's political commentator and a former high government figure.

Hours-Long Diatribe

As soon as loudspeakers blared the news to the delegates, Radio Moscow started an hours-long diatribe by Russians and visitors from all over the globe.

Tass began pouring it out. "Investia hit the streets with a special issue, the front - page headline screaming 'Crime of American Atomists.'"

The Russians had cosmonauts Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov issue a statement at the peace congress which denounced the test as "criminal actions of the atom-maniacs." The two claimed the space explosion would greatly complicate future space flights and demanded such tests be halted immediately.

First on the rostrum in Hall of Congresses, decorated with a huge new design of a peace dove drawn especially for the occasion by Pablo Picasso, was a British housewife who was celebrating her 29th birthday.

"Spokesman" For Mothers

"They asked me to speak as a representative of all mothers," said Mrs. Judith Cook, mother of four. She has the youngest, 4-month-old Nicholas, here with her.

British Prof. John Bernal, long-time apologist for Communist causes, told newsmen the blast, or one like it, could be used to disguise the unleashing of a thermonuclear war. He claimed it violated the joint Soviet-American statement on the use of outer space for peaceful purposes.

Bernal said such experts as Sir Bernard Lovell of Britain had already denounced the proposed test as a "wanton intrusion" into the ionosphere with incalculable consequences.

Aid Plea Made By President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy personally appealed to Republican and Democratic House leaders Monday to let him continue using U.S. aid in an effort to wean Yugoslavia and Poland away from the Soviet camp. But Rep. Bob Casey, D - Tex., seeking to bar such aid, told the House that American assistance to Communist countries was nothing short of national suicide.

Kennedy called the legislative leaders, some of them strong anti-Communist spokesmen, to an unannounced White House meeting just a few hours before the House began debate on the $4.6 billion foreign aid bill.

The President is trying to persuade the House to scrap or at least modify a Senate amendment that would bar all aid except surplus food shipments to Yugoslavia, Poland and other Red nations.

Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., influential chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, threw his support behind Kennedy after the White House meeting.

Churchill's Broken Leg "More Swollen"

LONDON (UPI) — Sir Winston Churchill's broken left leg is "rather more swollen," a hospital bulletin said Monday, but a spokesman said "there is no general disturbance and he is very comfortable."

Middlesex Hospital announced Saturday that Churchill, 87, who broke a thigh bone in a fall at his Riviera Hotel, had been hit by phlebitis, an inflammation of the vein sometimes causing clotting of blood.

Adams Tees Off On Suggestion Trip Costly Flop

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just because "we had a little squabble offstage," comedian Joey Adams said Monday, "it's a dirty, sneaking slap at 25 wonderful entertainers" to describe their overseas tour as a costly flop.

This was Adams' indignant retort to comment by tart-tongued Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., on the four-month tour of Afghanistan and Southeast Asia by the troupe headed by Adams.

Rooney said there was no way of telling what such shows accomplished and that anyway the total cost of $256,000, including $1,200 a week for Adams, was too high a price.

The congressman, chairman of a House appropriations subcommittee, tore into the venture in testimony released Monday in opposing an $1.2 million increase over last year in the State Department's cultural exchange program. This would raise to $4.1 million the total for the fiscal year starting last July 1.

Rooney produced reports from State Department posts in the areas visited by Adams' troupe, disclosing bitter feuding among the performers that led to a near first fight in Saigon between Adams and drummer Buddy Rich.

But Max Isenberg, a deputy assistant secretary of state in charge of the program, insisted the personal differences were kept offstage and did not interfere with the audience reaction to the show.

In New York, Adams denounced Rooney's complaints as "unfair and uninformed."

Such squabbles, he said, can happen anywhere—"I've seen it happen in Congress more times than once."

His performers, Adams said, went through all sorts of discomforts, at sacrifice to themselves, to do "a good job for our country," while Rooney was "sitting here smugly sipping his tea."

Adams said he had messages from government leaders around the world praising the value of his shows in the cold war.

As for the costs, Adams said the performers paid their own expenses and used most of their salaries to do so. He added that the total cost wouldn't amount to 1-30th of the price of a bomber.

Senate Committee Approves M'Closkey

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday approved 9-4 the nomination of Matthew W. McCloskey, Philadelphia builder and long-time Democratic party money raiser, to be U.S. ambassador to Ireland.

Four Republicans voted against the former Democratic national treasurer. Two other GOP committee members were not recorded.

Typhoon Nears Flood-Ravaged Japanese Area

TOKYO, Tuesday (UPI) — Typhoon Joan, its 92-mile per hour winds churning the Pacific, today headed for an area of Japan where nine days of heavy rains already have killed nearly 100 persons.

Japanese weather officials said the typhoon was expected to reach Kyushu Island, the southern most link of Japan's island chain, at mid-day.

At least 94 persons were killed by floods and landslides in Kyushu and police said the toll was certain to exceed 100 when all reports are in. Another 33 persons are missing and 116 were seriously injured.

Medical Care Expert Studies Strike Issues

REGINA, Sask. (AP) — Socialist Premier Woodrow Lloyd called in a British expert Monday and both sides carried their battle to newspaper ads on this ninth day of a doctors' strike against Saskatchewan's medical care plan.

"I will try to help both sides reach an understanding," said Lord Taylor, 51, a member of the House of Lords, as he prepared to leave for Saskatchewan.

Lloyd said, however, that Lord Taylor is not coming as a mediator. He said he believes the British's advice will be useful to the public, the doctors and the government. Lord Taylor, a neuropsychiatric specialist, played a leading role in drafting Britain's free medical care plan in 1948.

Taylor commented on the Saskatchewan plan in a recent letter to the British medical magazine Lancet. He said one aspect of the program seemed to give the government undue control over doctors. That is the argument of the practicing physicians of this province, most of whom have been on strike since the plan became effective July 1.

Earth To Start Getting Nuclear Blast Fallout In About Year; Extent Unknown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whatever radioactive fallout results from Monday's high - altitude nuclear blast above the Pacific won't even begin falling on the earth for at least a year, scientists estimate.

And it will take about five years for the first half of it to come down.

The Atomic Energy Commission refuses to make any sort of estimate on how much fallout will result from the superblast. For two reasons:

First, the AEC will not say just what percentage of the megaton-range device produced fission energy, as distinguished from fusion. It's the fission part that produces the major share of whatever fallout results from a nuclear explosion.

Also, scientists still disagree, the AEC says, on what happens

Austrian Trade Unions Assail Doctors' Strike

VIENNA (AP) — Austrian doctors staged a 24-hour strike Monday and ran into limited counteraction after Austrian trade unions denounced the walkout.

The doctors said they struck because the Vienna Sickness Compensation Fund was unfair to them in the matter of fees. Several hundred persons, who had apparently also left their jobs, demonstrated before the downtown headquarters of the doctors. They chanted slogans but there were no clashes.

A spokesman for the Vienna Chamber of Doctors, a medical association, said the doctors received three delegations from the ranks of the demonstrators and explained the situation to them. The demonstrators left shortly afterward and marched to the Austrian chancellery, demanding government action.

Late in the day, the president of the Austrian Trade Union Federation, Franz Olah, called on the government to take action in the conflict between the doctors and the Vienna fund.

Charging that the doctors' demands were exorbitant, Olah said, "We will see whether moderation only applies to laborers, white collar workers and civil servants, or to everybody in the country." Olah then called for a discontinuation of the demonstrations.

The doctors said officials of the Sickness Compensation Fund so far refused to open negotiations with them. The fund claimed the doctors' demand for a 65 per cent increase of fees was exorbitant. The doctors countered by saying they were lagging considerably behind salary increases of other groups.

Health insurance is compulsory in Austria. Most of the doctors are paid by the fund under a collective contract with the doctors chamber.

Device Is Set Off 200 Miles Above Pacific

Flash Lights Sky From Wake Island To New Zealand

HONOLULU (AP) — The United States exploded a missile - borne hydrogen device more than 200 miles above the Pacific Sunday night, the highest thermonuclear blast ever achieved.

The massively powerful blast lighted up thousands of miles of Pacific sky, from tiny Wake Island to New Zealand, and aroused prompt and angry denunciation in Moscow and Peiping.

Some disruption in Pacific communications was reported but not as much as had been feared.

The megaton-plus device was fired with a force of more than a million tons of TNT 15 minutes after its booster Thor missile blasted off from the Johnston Island test base. It exploded precisely on schedule at 11 p.m. (4 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Monday).

The magnitude of the flaring flash was so great that it filled heavy clouds over Hawaii with a brilliant glare fading into a glow of rainbow colors, lasting six minutes. Honolulu is 750 miles north of Johnston Island.

Colorful Display

In Auckland, New Zealand — some 3,843 miles southwest of Johnston—people were startled by glowing light sweeping across the clear sky from northern to southern horizon.

Auckland watchers saw a widening red band of color, shot through with quivering white shafts of light.

At Wake Island — 1,500 miles northwest of Johnston—the more than 200-mile-high blast was seen as bright lightning. Watchers in the Fiji Islands—2,000 miles away—saw a rainbow glow changing through green, blue and yellow and finally to orange and red.

The successful test followed two attempts that failed because of missile malfunctions June 4 and June 19 and four postponements of the third try that worked out perfectly.

Confirmation that the explosion was thermonuclear with a hydrogen device came from the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington after it first had said only that the blast involved a nuclear device.

Joint Task Force 8 officials reported the United States fired a small atomic device at about 300 miles altitude over the South Atlantic in 1958.

Official Information Vague

"But this is the highest explosion ever tried with a device of this type," a task force spokesman said.

Official information available on the blast's size and altitude was vague.

Official sources refused to report precise altitude but Joint Task Force 8 sources advised that more than 200 miles was a sound estimate.

The highest reported altitude for a Soviet test was "over 100 miles." President Kennedy gave this figure in his March 2 speech announcing the United States would resume atmospheric testing.

The Russians have not announced any figures on their test altitudes.

Joint Task Force 8 officially classified the blast force as megaton plus—meaning more than a million tons of TNT. Unofficial estimates ranged to 10 megatons. This would be 500 times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima, rated at 20 kilotons, or 20,000 tons of wnt.

conducted at a comparatively low altitudes is this: There would be no early fallout. Early fallout is the kind that results when weapon debris is deposited in the troposphere—the region of the atmosphere that extends only 25,000 to 55,000 feet above the earth.

Tropospheric fallout begins to fall soon after a blast, and about half comes down within about 30 days. Weapon debris which enters the stratosphere—which ranges up to about 150,000 — takes anywhere from less than a year to about 10 years to come down.

In Monday's shot, the explosion occurred high above both the stratosphere and the troposphere. Thus before any fallout reaches earth it first must fall into the stratosphere.

Government Cuts Margin For Stock Credit Buying

At Wake Island — 1,500 miles northwest of Johnston—the more than 200-mile-high blast was seen as bright lightning. Watchers in the Fiji Islands—2,000 miles away—saw a rainbow glow changing through green, blue and yellow and finally to orange and red.

The successful test followed two attempts that failed because of missile malfunctions June 4 and June 19 and four postponements of the third try that worked out perfectly.

Confirmation that the explosion was thermonuclear with a hydrogen device came from the Atomic Energy Commission in Washington after it first had said only that the blast involved a nuclear device.

Joint Task Force 8 officials reported the United States fired a small atomic device at about 300 miles altitude over the South Atlantic in 1958.

Official Information Vague

"But this is the highest explosion ever tried with a device of this type," a task force spokesman said.

Official information available on the blast's size and altitude was vague.

Official sources refused to report precise altitude but Joint Task Force 8 sources advised that more than 200 miles was a sound estimate.

The highest reported altitude for a Soviet test was "over 100 miles." President Kennedy gave this figure in his March 2 speech announcing the United States would resume atmospheric testing.

The Russians have not announced any figures on their test altitudes.

Joint Task Force 8 officially classified the blast force as megaton plus—meaning more than a million tons of TNT. Unofficial estimates ranged to 10 megatons. This would be 500 times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima, rated at 20 kilotons, or 20,000 tons of TNT.

There would be no early fallout. Early fallout is the kind that results when weapon debris is deposited in the troposphere—the region of the atmosphere that extends only 25,000 to 55,000 feet above the earth.

Tropospheric fallout begins to fall soon after a blast, and about half comes down within about 30 days.

Weapon debris which enters the stratosphere—which ranges up to about 150,000 — takes anywhere from less than a year to about 10 years to come down.

In Monday's shot, the explosion occurred high above both the stratosphere and the troposphere. Thus before any fallout reaches earth it first must fall into the stratosphere.

JFK's Interdependence Plan Blasted By Pravda

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union Monday berated President Kennedy's proposal for U.S.-European interdependence as aimed at unleashing a nuclear war.

The denunciation, timed to coincide with the opening here of the World Peace Congress, was written by "Observer" for Pravda, Communist party newspaper. Such articles are, in reality, statements of government policy.

It was the first mention of Kennedy's five-day-old speech to appear here, indicating that the Philadelphia statement was the subject of intense study at highest level before a word of it was publicized.

Pravda wrote that "under the slogans of raising the general welfare and guaranteeing the blessings of freedom, the American and West European integrators would like to create a new 'Holy Alliance' of reaction against the peoples, against their freedom and security, for preparing and touching off a world thermonuclear war. Naturally this is not an easy task in our days.

"Mr. Kennedy's efforts to bolster the 'European' ideas of (French President) De Gaulle and (West German Chancellor) Adenauer, with the idea of an Atlantic community, will bring no laurels either to the United States or its allies."

The blast against Kennedy was the most severe to appear since he became president, except for abuse heaped on the abortive invasion of Cuba.

To Western diplomats, it was one more indication of the Communist world's fear of, and determination to prevent, a unified, economically strong Western world.

York Leaves Hospital

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sgt. Alvin York, hero of World War I, left his hospital bed here Monday to return to his Pall Mall, Tenn., home about 150 miles east of Nashville.

York, 74, underwent surgery for removal of an enlarged prostate gland June 29. A hospital spokesman said he is recovering satisfactorily.

Car Insurance Rate Hike Foe Asks Hearing

BALTIMORE (AP) — Higher automobile insurance rates in Maryland will be attacked by Baltimore attorney Hyman Pressman as excessive, discriminatory and not justified.

Pressman filed a petition Monday with Insurance Commissioner F. Douglass Sears asking for a public hearing and disapproval of the new rates.

The new rates on comprehensive and collision insurance became effective June 27 after Sears approved them. They were filed by the National Automobile Underwriters Association.

The association represents 400 companies writing insurance in Maryland but several large, independent firms are outside the organization.

Pressman contended in the application for hearing that he would be directly damaged because his insurance company belongs to the association.

In Baltimore City, the new rates mean increases of 11.2 per cent in comprehensive coverage, 3.1 per cent in $50 deductible and 9.6 per cent in $100 deductible.

The comparable increases for suburban areas are 7.6 per cent for comprehensive and 3.5 per cent for $100 deductible, but a reduction of one-half of 1 per cent for $50 deductible.

Assault Case Against James Hoffa Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government dropped Monday the criminal assault charges lodged against Teamster Union President James R. Hoffa after the reported beating of a union employee.

The charges were entered last May 17 on complaint of Samuel Baron, a teamsters official, who claimed that Hoffa knocked him down twice and shoved him over a chair at the union's headquarters here.

The U.S. Attorney's Office announced it is unable to prosecute the misdemeanor charge against Hoffa because of serious conflicts between accounts of the incident given by Baron and by six eyewitnesses who also are union employees.

Seven Killed As Speeding Car Plows Into Another

BRANDYWINE, Md. (AP) — Seven persons were killed Monday as a car speeding through the early morning darkness collided head on with another auto. An eighth, a girl, was born dead in the crash.

One of the victims was Mrs. Joan Ball, 22, of Washington, D.C., 8½ months pregnant. State Police said her infant daughter was still-born at the time of the impact.

The others killed were Evelyn Adams, 21; John L. Ford, 22; Vincent Whitfield, 22; Jean Jackson, 19; Barbara Hollis, 15, and Oliver Armstead, 20 all of Washington, D.C.

Two persons were injured seriously in the accident 13 miles southeast of Washington, and one of them was in critical condition. State Trooper Robert G. Grimes said the dead were occupants of a convertible racing with a late-model sedan at more than 100 m.p.h.

The sedan was leading in the race northward, Grimes said, when it passed another car. The driver of the convertible tried to pass, too. Instead, the convertible sideswiped the car it was passing, spun around, was struck head-on by a southbound vehicle, then flipped over on its roof.

"It was the worst I've ever seen," said Grimes adding that the sedan did not stop after the accident.

All of those in the convertible were heading home from Waldorf in Southern Maryland when the accident happened where U.S. 301 forks into Maryland 5 at T.B., Md.

Luber, 1951-58 Speaker Of Md. House, Dies

BALTIMORE (AP) — John C. Luber, the only man ever elected eight straight years as speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, died Monday in Bon Secours Hospital. He was 58.

Luber was hospitalized Saturday. Death followed a lengthy illness.

Luber, a Democrat and a native of Baltimore, went down to defeat in the 1958 primary election after having served 20 years in the House.

His unbroken span as speaker was between 1951 and 1958. Luber's fifth straight election to the speakership in 1955 followed an eleventh hour deadlock over organization of the House for that session of the General Assembly.

Luber rode to victory after the Eastern Shore delegation held a midnight caucus and voted to support him.

The former speaker, who represented Baltimore's 5th District, retired last year as special representative in the law department of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

"Luber served with great dedication as speaker," said Gov. Tawes in a statement issued shortly after Luber's death. "He represented well his constituents of the 5th District as well as the state as a whole."

Demo Official, Former Convict, Loses Vote Right

BALTIMORE (AP) — The attorney general ruled Monday that a newly elected official of the Democratic party should be deprived of the right of vote in any election because of a criminal conviction.

The opinion by Thomas B. Finan applied only to the individual voting privilege of Eugene Gallagher and not to his position as a member of the Baltimore 3rd District Democratic state central committee.

The 31-year-old Gallagher was one of three members elected to the committee in the May primary. The main function of the committee is to recommend appointments to any vacancies in the legislature.

Gallagher was sent to prison for three years when he was 22 years old on burglary charges.

"Since it is clear that Gallagher has been convicted of the crime of larceny, until such time as he is pardoned by the governor, he is disqualified from voting in this state," Finan wrote.

Senate-House Appropriation Row Intensified

WASHINGTON (AP)—The irreconcilable force and the immovable object collided Monday—and nothing budged.

The deadlock between the Senate and House Appropriations Committees got tighter, if anything, and no break appeared imminent.

It has held up final congressional action on appropriation bills since last April and forced Congress to finance the government on a 30-day emergency basis for this month.

The House committee fired the latest blast Monday when it accused the Senate of "consistently advocating larger appropriations, increased spending and corresponding deficits." This brought a prompt Senate outcry that the House group was being "deliberately insulting."

The House committee turned down a proposal by the Senate committee to make a thorough study of procedural matters causing the deadlock and stuck to its original position that procedures be changed now, not next year.

Proceduralists involved in who shall preside at joint committee sessions called to adjust differences between the Senate and the House on money bills. Traditionally, a senator has presided.

This tradition, the House group said in a resolution, gives the Senate a "disproportionate advantage" over the House. The House committee wants to rotate the chairmanships.

That's all right with the Senate committee provided the House agrees to let the Senate originate half of the annual money bills. The House has refused to accept that proposition.

The first adhesive postage stamps were issued with the portraits of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin.

Dancer Who Talked Says Fla. Clubs Blacklist Her

BALTIMORE (AP) — Danielle Dao Tien, a Vietnamese exotic dancer, said Monday she has been blacklisted by Miami Beach night club operators because of statements she made about their operations.

The tall, dark-haired girl from Hanoi said she was about to report for work at the Piccadilly Club in Miami Beach last Tuesday when police closed it and four other night spots.

The crackdown came as a Senate subcommittee heard testimony in Washington, D. C., during its investigation of the entertainers' union, the American Guild of Variety Artists (AGVA).

Miss Dao Tien said Miami Beach club operators had refused to hire her after she contended, in an interview with the Miami Herald, that her employers tried to make her mix with customers and make them buy expensive drinks.

"I wouldn't dare ask for a bottle of champagne costing $90 from someone who just wanted to compliment me on my dance," she said Monday in an interview. "That is what my employer wanted me to do."

"I thought it would be helpful of me to talk. Now I realize when you say the truth, it doesn't help."

She said she was going to her room in Miami Beach after the club was closed when a big, blonde woman sent by a night club operator, "tried to kill me. She was trying to jump on me. She was going to strangle me."

The dancer said she just arrived in Baltimore Saturday from Cocoa Beach, Fla., where her act at the Starlight Lounge lasted only one day.

"They found out what happened in Miami Beach and they told me I was too hot to handle," she said. "I'm ruined in Miami Beach, where I could make a lot of money this winter. They're trying to boycott me."

Miss Dao Tien also criticized the AGVA for not helping her. "AGVA has never done anything for me," she said.

BOMBAY, India (UPI) — Officials of Alitalia airlines announced Monday that rescue crews had recovered the bodies of 68 of the 94 persons killed early Saturday when an Alitalia DC8 jet crashed into a 700-foot hill 50 miles east of Bombay.

Gibson Hired By City As Consultant

Arthur B. Gibson, veteran city employee who retired last July 31, has been called upon to return to municipal service.

The Mayor and Council yesterday passed an order for the retention of Gibson as financial consultant on a temporary basis. Gibson ended 23 years of municipal employment as city auditor and later comptroller and has been called upon to resume those duties until a new comptroller is hired by the city.

Ten applicants had expressed interest in the position, and following screening by a board composed of auditors and financial experts from local industry the field was narrowed to four applicants.

These will be interviewed later this month, and the one selected will work with Gibson during a probationary period.

In connection with the re-hiring of Gibson, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, presently commissioner of streets and public property, and who formerly headed the Finance Department, expressed her personal thanks to Wallace G. Ulery, city clerk who has been doing the work of city comptroller since the resignation of Albert J. Lawler several months ago.

Mrs. Roeder pointed out to council that Ulery assumed the additional work and responsibility with no remuneration and has performed an excellent job in keeping the city operating.

The Mayor and other members of Council concurred in expressing their appreciation of Ulery's work.

Cumberland Lodge #3, BPO Elks, wrote to the Mayor and Council to extend an invitation to meet state and national officials at a convention here August 23-26 of the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks Association.

Council also accepted, with a vote of appreciation, the resignation of Tolbert Leasure as a member of the City Street Department. In his letter of resignation, Leasure said he will retire at the end of the month because of ill health.

City Seeks Bids For Pest Control

The Street Department was ordered to advertise for bids on pest control at the city dump, warehouse, City Hall and Public Safety Building during yesterday's City Council meeting.

Approved unanimously was an order for the mayor and city clerk to execute an agreement with Thomas Lohr Richards for the acquisition of a right-of-way across his property for the White Avenue sewer project.

In routine action, the Mayor and Council accepted reports submitted by the city's sinking fund trustees, City Tax Collector George E. Davis, the Street Department and Engineering Department.

In the latter, Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, noted that 16 building permits were issued last month. All but one of the permits were for new construction, and the total valuation was placed at $625,500.

The June report of the Police and Fire departments noted that police made 430 arrests and collected fines amounting to $1,131.95, and that the Fire Department responded to 26 calls.

Shrine Band Wins Prize At Convention

Seventy-five members of Ali Ghan Shrine Temple have returned from Toronto, Canada, headquarters for the annual convention of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine convinced it was the "biggest and best ever."

The group, many of whom were accompanied by their wives, was headed by J. Wallace Close, illustrious potentate of Ali Ghan Temple; Woodrow D. Pealer, chief rabban; C. William Hetzer, assistant rabban, and Lewis J. Ort, past potentate.

Included in the delegation was Ali Ghan's 16-piece band, referred to by convention headquarters as "The Little Band With the Big Beat."

The band placed second in competition with units of less than 25 members, and also was featured on a television program while in Toronto. Accompanying the band in the convention parade was the band truck and flag unit. Gus Zeller was director of the band, which included three members from Hagerstown.

Neil C. Yommer, of the local delegation, has been described as the "hero" of the convention for his exploit in capturing a pickpocket who stole $700 from a Mrs. Beverly Davis of Newport, Va.

According to Toronto papers, Yommer spotted the theft while in the lobby of the Royal York Hotel. He ran after the pickpocket and floored him with a flying tackle. Toronto police identified the culprit as Jessie Spinrock, a Toronto resident who only recently had been released from jail.

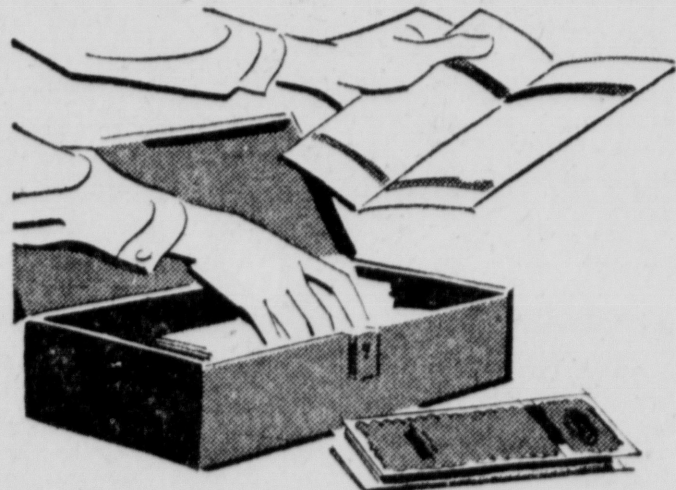

Ali Ghan Temple received special recognition at the convention as the fastest-growing Shrine unit in North America. The 1,600-member temple recently increased its membership by 20 per cent, and Potentate Close reports the unit is still growing rapidly.

To Receive Pin

A 35 year pin will be presented to Mrs. Sadie Smith by Mrs. Chloe Reynolds, district president and auxiliary president, at the meeting of the VFW Auxiliary tonight.

The meeting will be held at the post home at 8 p.m. A short business session will be followed by a social hour.

Gibson Hired By City As Consultant

Arthur B. Gibson, veteran city employee who retired last July 31, has been called upon to return to municipal service.

The Mayor and Council yesterday passed an order for the retention of Gibson as financial consultant on a temporary basis.

Gibson ended 23 years of municipal employment as city auditor and later comptroller and has been called upon to resume those duties until a new comptroller is hired by the city.

Ten applicants had expressed interest in the position, and following screening by a board composed of auditors and financial experts from local industry the field was narrowed to four applicants.

These will be interviewed later this month, and the one selected will work with Gibson during a probationary period.

In connection with the re-hiring of Gibson, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, presently commissioner of streets and public property, and who formerly headed the Finance Department, expressed her personal thanks to Wallace G. Ullery, city clerk who has been doing the work of city comptroller since the resignation of Albert J. Lawler several months ago.

Mrs. Roeder pointed out to council that Ullery assumed the additional work and responsibility with no remuneration and has performed an excellent job in keeping the city operating.

The Mayor and other members of Council concurred in expressing their appreciation of Ullery's work.

Cumberland Lodge 63, BPO Elks, wrote to the Mayor and Council to extend an invitation to meet state and national officials at a convention here August 23-26 of the Maryland-Delaware-District of Columbia Elks Association.

Council also accepted, with a vote of appreciation, the resignation of Tolbert Leasure as a member of the City Street Department. In his letter of resignation, Leasure said he will retire at the end of the month because of ill health.

City Storage Tank Sought

The Street Department yesterday was ordered to advertise for bids for the installation of a storage tank for bituminous material required in surface treatment and patching of the city's streets.

In submitting the order, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, explained that the installation of the tank would result not only in a saving of money, but have the added advantage of having the material on hand on a year-round basis.

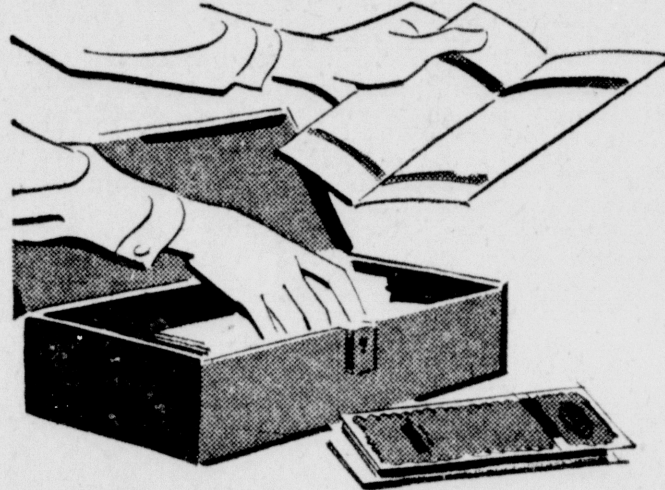

Included in the order for bids, besides the tank, were a boiler, pump and other necessary accessories for the storage of the bituminous material.

Council also accepted the bid of the Garland Petroleum Company for furnishing bituminous material, it being noted the firm submitted the lower of only two bids.

Layers of compacted soil just below tillage depth restrict or halt plant root growth by interfering with root penetration, not by restricting air or moisture supply to the roots, the U. S. Department of Agriculture says.

While food consumption per person in the U. S. has been fairly stable, consumers used almost a fifth less non-food farm products — mostly fibers, fats, and oils, and tobacco — in 1959-60 than in 1949-50.

City Seeks Bids For Pest Control

The Street Department was ordered to advertise for bids on pest control at the city dump, warehouse, City Hall and Public Safety Building during yesterday's City Council meeting.

Approved unanimously was an order for the mayor and city clerk to execute an agreement with Thomas Lohr Richards for the acquisition of a right-of-way across his property for the White Avenue sewer project.

In routine action, the Mayor and Council accepted reports submitted by the city's sinking fund trustees, City Tax Collector George E. Davis, the Street Department and Engineering Department.

In the latter, Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, noted that 16 building permits were issued last month. All but one of the permits were for new construction, and the total valuation was placed at $625,500.

The June report of the Police and Fire departments noted that police made 430 arrests and collected fines amounting to $1,131.95, and that the Fire Department responded to 26 calls.

Shrine Band Wins Prize At Convention

Seventy-five members of Ali Ghan Shrine Temple have returned from Toronto, Canada, headquarters for the annual convention of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine convinced it was the "biggest and best ever."

The group, many of whom were accompanied by their wives, was headed by J. Wallace Close, illustrious potentate of Ali Ghan Temple; Woodrow D. Pealer, chief rabban; C. William Hetzer, assistant rabban; and Lewis J. Ort, past potentate.

Included in the delegation was Ali Ghan's 16-piece band, referred to by convention headquarters as "The Little Band With the Big Beat."

The band placed second in competition with units of less than 25 members, and also was featured on a television program while in Toronto. Accompanying the band in the convention parade was the band truck and flag unit. Gus Zeller was director of the band, which included three members from Hagerstown.

Neil C. Yommer, of the local delegation, has been described as the "hero" of the convention for his exploit in capturing a pick-pocket who stole $700 from a Mrs. Beverly Davis of Newport, Va.

According to Toronto papers, Yommer spotted the theft while in the lobby of the Royal York Hotel. He ran after the pick-pocket and floored him with a flying tackle. Toronto police identified the culprit as Jessie Spinrock, a Toronto resident who only recently had been released from jail.

Ali Ghan Temple received special recognition at the convention as the fastest-growing Shrine unit in North America. The 1,600-member temple recently increased its membership by 20 per cent, and Potentate Close reports the unit is still growing rapidly.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with interest the letter from the woman who married for the second time. She complained that her 21-year-old son receives the icicle treatment from his stepfather and the cold war between the two was making her physically ill. I am a step-dad who has a similar situation, but the shoe is on the other foot. My wife's son is 16. He is surly, uncooperative and spoiled beyond hope. I've tried to make friends with the boy for three years but it's useless. He hated his real father and has transferred that hatred to me.

I love the boy's mother but her "baby" is building a wall between us that soon will be impossible to scale. I hope you'll print this letter for the benefit of women with children who remarry. Too often they feel guilty about depriving their youngsters of their real dad so they go all out to "make it up to them." The step-dad gets the short end of the string. Sometimes he becomes fed up on being pushed around and simple checks out.

—READY TO SCRAM
DEAR READY: The divorce rate in this country is about one out of three — so your letter will hit a broader segment of readers than you may realize. I say if the shoe fits, women, wear it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 20-year-old daughter told us yesterday that she and her boy friend were married secretly last February.

Would it be proper to send out wedding announcements? Should we give a reception? My husband feels we should submit her picture to the paper and do nothing more.

I suppose it would help you to answer more intelligently if you knew whether or not a baby is on

FALL FASHIONS — The sleeveless "nothing" sheath, becomes something dazzling done all over in gold beads with extra ribbons of gold beads around the neck, arm holes and hemline. 34 To Compete In Revue

Styling 52 garments, 34 members of the 4-H clubs will take part in the annual County 4-H Dress Revue, which will be held at the LaVale fire hall, Thursday at 8 p.m. Rehearsal will be at 1:30 p.m., tomorrow, also at the fire hall.

Participating will be Ivan Shope, Phyllis Shope, Doris Swauger,

Mary Michael, Susan James, Kay Frances Morgan, Susan Logue, Melody Hast, Suzanne Weatherholt, Rebah James, Linda Maguire, Joyce Dreyer, Carol Evans, Darcy Evans, Betty Twigg, Anne Williamson, Claudelle Ward, Cathy Tate, Jean Robinette, Nancy Robinette, Sherry Boore, Linda Byer, Janet Weatherholt, Mary Baker, Janet Miltenberger, Joan Miltenberger, Janet Squires, Paula Buchanan, Carol Ranker, Dorothy Long, Joyce Du Rocher, Ruth Ann Clark, Joyce Simpson and Kaye Trost.

There will be a junior and senior division, with three winners in each class. Winners in the senior division will compete in the state at Club Week, August 6-11. The style revue is open to the public. Judges are Mrs. Fred Roberts, Mrs. Edward Lewis and Mrs. James R. Smith.

the way. Well, I didn't ask and they didn't tell me, but I would not be surprised at anything where these two are concerned.

Please try to give me some advice based on this scanty information. It's all I have. Thank you.

—PLENTY UPSET
DEAR PLENTY: The less hula-hoo the better. An announcement now would be difficult to explain.

The most sensible approach now would be to drop a note to your closest friends and the immediate family. Tell them your daughter was married several months ago and just made the fact known. The others will get the word soon enough.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Mine will probably be the least urgent and least significant letter of the year, but I have a gripe that has irritated me for a long time.

I have been attending club meetings, banquets and civic affairs for 30 years. When in heaven's name will the chairmen of these meetings get smart and stop rattling off the names of dozens of people who worked in the kitchen, arranged the flowers, sold the tickets and donated the center pieces? After each name, there is a pause. Of course the audience is expected to applaud. These dreadful little bursts are an imposition and an embarrassment.

What possible honor can it be to have one's name read off with 34 others? Of course, everyone wants recognition, but the same way to satisfy these hungry egos is to print their names in the monthly bulletin or in the program.

Most luncheon and banquet programs are too long and boring at best. I don't know of a single affair which could not have been made more enjoyable by dropping this inane practice.

—OUTSPOKEN
DEAR OUTSPOKEN: You've been reading my mind. I see little hope for eliminating the practice of name-reading however, since most people love any crumb of recognition, no matter how small, and they insist on getting it.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send form ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pen Pals Meet After 24 Years

Pen pals for 24 years met for the first time last week. Mrs. Rolland G. Sipes, accompanied by her husband and son, 210 Oak Street, went to Washington to meet Mrs. Raymond Busniewski, Hilo, Hawaii, who with her husband is visiting in the United States.

Through an article in the paper, Mrs. Sipes heard that a Hawaiian girl wanted to correspond with an American girl, so she wrote and asked for the name of one and the correspondence began.

The couples had a get-together at the Ambassador Hotel, Washington, at which time Mrs. Busniewski presented an orchid corsage and a Hawaiian lei of more than 300 orchids to Mrs. Sipes. The couples toured the Chesapeake Bay bridge area, industrial area of Philadelphia, New Jersey and New York. They even had an evening of Hawaiian music and dancing at the home of Nikki Snyder, formerly of Hawaii, who now lives in Mt. Holly, N. J.

Mr. Busniewski, who is a United States weatherman in Hilo, attended a meeting in Washington and will attend the convention of weathermen in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Busniewski flew from Hilo to San Francisco, and Baltimore, motored to Washington for the meeting, and will spend several days in New York before going to Chicago, then fly to Wisconsin to visit his parents, before going to the Seattle World Fair, with a group of 50 other Hawaiians and then return home.

Outing Date Changed

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Abolish Abdomen Bulge

If you have acquired an unlovely abdominal contour, you can be happy in the knowledge that it is easily abolished. The simple action of consistently drawing in your abdomen when walking, sitting and standing will go a long way toward permanent flattening.

Some women maintain that they simply cannot pull or hold in the abdomen. That's a confession that you have taken refuge in a too-tight girdle — a most damaging measure. It not only results in discomfort and constriction, but forces the muscles to lie fallow and deteriorate even further.

Youthfulness will be quickly regained when you acquire a girdle that refines but does not constrict; when you improve your posture, and adopt a set of toning and reducing exercises. Here are two dandies:

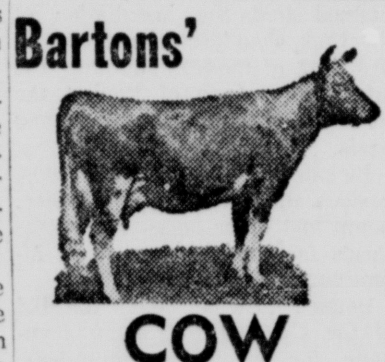

1. Lie flat on your back on the floor. Place both arms out to the sides at shoulder level. Then raise both legs straight up in the air, as far apart as possible. Next, cross them so that you look like animated scissors.

Get as wide a leg swing in both directions as possible. Make your motions quick and brisk. Repeat 10 times for the first three days. Gradually increase the number of times per day and slow your performance at the same time. Make 30 times with the effect of a slow-motion movie your goal.

2. Still on your back, place the soles of your feet on the floor.

Press your back into the floor and contract your abdominal muscles, hard. Hold this position for a slow count of 10. Next, without relaxing your position, slide your heels down the floor until your calves touch it. Relax and repeat 10 times. Work up 25 times daily.

Follow this routine and your abdomen will quickly flatten and firm. Better still, you'll be able to hold in your stomach without effort.

In trying to fulfill his contract, the declarer is frequently confronted with a choice of strategies. Should he try and lead the opposition into making an error by means of some psychological maneuver, or should he fall back on a true play for the hand? South in today's hand tried to out-floss his opponents, but they proved to be too resourceful for him.

The six heart contract was a sound commitment, reached by a series of cue bids after the trump suit had been agreed on. West opened fire with the queen of spades which was taken by declarer's ace as East signaled encouragement with the seven.

To South, it appeared that, in the absence of some highly favorable distribution in diamonds, his best hope for success lay in persuading the opponents to open up that suit for him. He led a club to the ace, therefore, and ruffed the club return. Trumps were drawn in the dummy and the last club was trumped out. Having completed his stripping operation, he now exited with the ten of spades. If the defenders thought he was now out of spades, they might be persuaded to make a favorable return.

West carefully followed to declarer's spade play with the eight of spades, permitting his partner to win the trick with the king. East had been watching the spots closely, and he was quick to note that the five of spades was missing. Mentally assigning that card to the declarer, East exited with a small spade. South was obliged to play the diamonds himself and, eventually, he had to concede a trick in the suit.

The defenders' alertness is certainly to be commended, but it is our opinion that declarer's approach was distinctly naive, inasmuch as he had a true end play for his contract. After winning the spade lead, he should draw trump immediately and then finesse the queen of clubs. When the finesse works, he can discard a spade from his hand on the ace of clubs. The last club is ruffed and, when South exits with the ten of spades, he will now force the opponents to either open up the diamond suit or else give him a ruff-and-suff. By the simple device of playing for split diamond honors, he can avoid losing a trick in the suit, and his slam will come home.

Some women maintain that they simply cannot pull or hold in the abdomen. That's a confession that you have taken refuge in a too-tight girdle — a most damaging measure. It not only results in discomfort and constriction, but forces the muscles to lie fallow and deteriorate even further.

Youthfulness will be quickly regained when you acquire a girdle that refines but does not constrict; when you improve your posture, and adopt a set of toning and reducing exercises. Here are two dandies:

1. Lie flat on your back on the floor. Place both arms out to the sides at shoulder level. Then raise both legs straight up in the air, as far apart as possible. Next, cross them so that you look like animated scissors.

Get as wide a leg swing in both directions as possible. Make your motions quick and brisk. Repeat 10 times for the first three days. Gradually increase the number of times per day and slow your performance at the same time. Make 30 times with the effect of a slow-motion movie your goal.

2. Still on your back, place the soles of your feet on the floor.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Mine will probably be the least urgent and least significant letter of the year, but I have a gripe that has irritated me for a long time.

I have been attending club meetings, banquets and civic affairs for 30 years. When in heaven's name will the chairmen of these meetings get smart and stop rattling off the names of dozens of people who worked in the kitchen, arranged the flowers, sold the tickets and donated the center pieces? After each name, there is a pause. Of course the audience is expected to applaud. These dreadful little bursts are an imposition and an embarrassment.

What possible honor can it be to have one's name read off with 34 others? Of course, everyone wants recognition, but the sane way to satisfy these hungry egos is to print their names in the monthly bulletin or in the program.

Most luncheon and banquet programs are too long and boring at best. I don't know of a single affair which could not have been made more enjoyable by dropping this inane practice.

— OUTSPOKEN

DEAR OUTSPOKEN: You've been reading my mind. I see little hope for eliminating the practice of name-reading however, since most people love any crumb of recognition, no matter how small, and they insist on getting it.

Are you tempted to smoke because the crowd does? If so, send form ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Teenage Smoking," enclosing with your request 10c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Pen Pals Meet After 24 Years

Pen pals for 24 years met for the first time last week. Mrs. Rolland G. Sipes, accompanied by her husband and son, 210 Oak Street, went to Washington to meet Mrs. Raymond Busniewski, Hilo, Hawaii, who with her husband is visiting in the United States.

Through an article in the paper, Mrs. Sipes heard that a Hawaiian girl wanted to correspond with an American girl, so she wrote and asked for the name of one and the correspondence began.

The couples had a get-together at the Ambassador Hotel, Washington, at which time Mrs. Busniewski presented an orchid corsage and a Hawaiian lei of more than 300 orchids to Mrs. Sipes. The couples toured the Chesapeake Bay bridge area, industrial area of Philadelphia, New Jersey and New York. They even had an evening of Hawaiian music and dancing at the home of Nikki Snyder, formerly of Hawaii, who now lives in Mt. Holly, N. J.

Mr. Busniewski, who is a United States weatherman in Hilo, attended a meeting in Washington and will attend the convention of weathermen in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Busniewski flew from Hilo to San Francisco, and Baltimore, motored to Washington for the meeting, and will spend several days in New York before going to Chicago, then fly to Wisconsin to visit his parents, before going to the Seattle World Fair, with a group of 50 other Hawaiians and then return home.

Outing Date Changed

The Jean Rowland Circle of Melvin Methodist Church changed the date of its wiener roast from Thursday to July 11.

Members are to meet at the church at 7 p.m., and then go to the home of Mrs. Elva Dom, Bedford Road.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Abolish Abdomen Bulge

If you have acquired an unlovely abdominal contour, you can be happy in the knowledge that it is easily abolished. The simple action of consistently drawing in your abdomen when walking, sitting and standing will go a long way toward permanent flattening.

Some women maintain that they simply cannot pull or hold in the abdomen. That's a confession that you have taken refuge in a too-tight girdle — a most damaging measure. It not only results in discomfort and constriction, but forces the muscles to lie fallow and deteriorate even further.

Youthfulness will be quickly regained when you acquire a girdle that refines but does not constrict; when you improve your posture, and adopt a set of toning and reducing exercises. Here are two dandies:

In trying to fulfill his contract, the declarer is frequently confronted with a choice of strategies. Should he try and lead the opposition into making an error by means of some psychological maneuver, or should he fall back on a true play for the hand? South in today's hand tried to out-fox his opponents, but they proved to be too resourceful for him.

The six heart contract was a sound commitment, reached by a series of cue bids after the trump suit had been agreed on. West opened first with the queen of spades which was taken by declarer's ace as East signaled encouragement with the seven.

To South, it appeared that, in the absence of some highly favorable distribution in diamonds, his best hope for success lay in persuading the opponents to open up that suit for him. He led a club to the ace, therefore, and ruffed the club return. Trumps were drawn in two rounds ending up in the dummy and the last club was trumped out. Having completed his stripping operation, he now exited with the ten of spades. If the defenders thought he was now out of spades, they might be persuaded to make a favorable return.

Mayor To Speak To Rotary Club

Cumberland's new mayor, Earl D. Chaney, will speak at a meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club today at 12:15 p.m. in Central YMCA.

Water Use Up

Water consumption for the week ended Sunday totaled 84,340,000 gallons, according to a report by Ray Nixon, superintendent. The daily average was placed at 12,049,000 gallons.

Nixon also reported water in Lake Koon was level with the spillway, and three feet, one inch below the crest at Lake Gordon.

Ridgeley Man Hurt In Wreck

A 34-year-old Ridgeley man was seriously injured in a spectacular automobile accident early yesterday on W. Va. Route 28, not far from the spot where four persons lost their lives in three-car pileup last November.

Robert Eugene Bobo was admitted to Memorial Hospital with a possible broken neck, according to Cpl. F. W. Armstrong, of the Keyser Detachment of West Virginia State Police.

Charles Jackson Leonard, 34, a railroad worker from Winchester who has been residing in Ridgeley, was a passenger in the demolished vehicle. He escaped uninjured.

A spokesman at Memorial Hospital said that Bobo is in "fair" condition.

Cpl. Armstrong reported that Bobo was driving a 1955-model car along Route 28, about one-tenth of a mile south of the Wiley Ford intersection, when the accident occurred at 1:40 a.m.

He said the car ran off the road on the right side and crashed into a slate embankment. It then traversed the highway to the left side and rammed into another embankment.

The uncontrolled machine uprooted a tree and carried it 60 feet, Cpl. Armstrong said. The vehicle finally came to a halt in front of the Paul E. Bronson residence.

The automobile traveled 250 feet along the ditch line after first leaving the roadway, the corporal continued, and sped out of control from the ditch for another 150 feet to where it dropped off the left side of the highway. The car went another 61 feet before coming to a stop, Cpl. Armstrong added.

The MacDonald Ambulance Service dispatched two ambulances to the scene.

Cpl. Armstrong said that no charges have been preferred, pending the outcome of the investigation.

City Appoints Members To Urban Renewal Unit

The Mayor and Council yesterday appointed five members to a Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency, acting on the recommendation of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission.

In a report signed by George O. Hollar, commission chairman, it was recommended that agency be composed of:

Harry A. Smith, production superintendent of the Pittsburgh Plate Company plant; Karl W. Bachman, president of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; Edward L. Ewald, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company; Marion T. Powers, vice president of the Kelly Springfield Tire Company, and Denton A. Fuller, president of the Liberty Trust Company.

Also recommended and approved by council was that Smith's term would be for a year; Bachman, two years; Ewald, three years; Powers, four years, and Fuller, five years.

The Mayor and Council also created a new municipal position, that of director of public information, and tapped John E. Byrd Jr., veteran City Hall reporter for the Cumberland Evening and Sunday Times, for the post.

In other action, council accepted the resignation of Hugh A. McMullen, the new city solicitor, as a member of the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Reappointed to a six-year term on the City Civil Service Commission was Ralph R. Webster, presently chairman of the unit. The new term was effective as of July 2, the order stated.

A detailed report of the Civil Service Commission, for the year ended June 30, and signed by Webster, Fred E. Ryan and Francis A. Kenney, was accepted by the Mayor and Council. It was voted that the commis-

Frightening Asthma Attacks End In Minutes As New Formula Unblocks Lung Passages Fast

New Medical Formula Restores Free Breathing Without Vaccines, Shots Or Narcotics. Calms Anxiety. No Prescription Needed.

New York, N.Y. (Special) — A team of scientists has announced a new formula that stops frightening asthma attacks in minutes and unblocks lung passages fast.

Medical tests prove this formula promptly restores free breathing, so calms anxiety and relieves the worst symptoms of asthma — the straining for breath, the gasping, the wheezing, the terrible fear of suffocation. All without vaccines, painful shots or habit-forming drugs. This formula is so safe when used as directed, it can be sold without prescription in tiny tablets called BRONITIN®.

Doctors know that when asthma strikes, breathing tubes become swollen, lung passages become blocked, so air is "trapped" inside lungs and less and less oxygen can enter. Now BRONITIN, with two asthma relieving medicines that doctors prescribe for their patients, acts quickly to open bronchial tubes and loosen the mucus that blocks lung passages. Trapped air is released and new vital oxygen enters the lungs.

The result is: free breathing is restored, tension eased and so fears are calmed in minutes. Sufferers can now look forward to restful sleep.

Get BRONITIN — available at all drug stores without prescription.

Remember 'Fiscal Responsibility'?

A federal budget $7 billion in the red certainly leaves little room for consolation, although the peacetime record—at $12.4 billion—still belongs to the Eisenhower administration in spending its way out of the 1958 business slump.

What about the budget for the fiscal year just started? Last January President Kennedy forecast the government would wind up the year with a $463 million surplus, based on a $92.5 billion spending program and predicted revenues of $93 billion.

Since then the slender anticipated surplus has gradually drifted to the minus side and, although the White House has made no official pronouncement, the current talk in the Treasury Building puts the deficit around $4.5 billion.

This figure, of course, takes no account of a possible tax cut. If Congress should act favorably at this session the present estimate of a $4.5 billion deficit would be a joke. But no one seems afraid of huge deficits any more. Appeals for tax cuts to spur the economy have come from all directions.

This is not to argue against a tax cut. Certainly taxes are too high. But it does seem curious that some of the nation's most conservative elements are currently agreed those once-cherished words, "fiscal responsibility," should be assigned to Mr. Kennedy's collected myths, clichés and legends.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Broken Homes

A humorist who apparently is a lawyer because he writes me on the stationery of a Bar Association, sends me this letter which is undoubtedly meant to be a rebuttal of the Supreme Court's attempt to throw God out of the Tax-supported schools:

"My good friend is writing this for me.

"You see, I'm Johnny and can't read or write. The ops say I'm a juvenile delinquent. The social worker says I'm the product of a broken home and a culturally deprived neighborhood. Da Teach says I'm an educational problem and almost impossible.

"A funny thing happened before school broke up. I asked Da Teach: 'Who is God and why should we trust in Him?'

"Da Teach said it's an expression and can't be answered in class because of the Supreme Court."

I was not thinking of the Supreme Court at the moment. It rather occurred to me that I had recently met several children of complex families—you know, mother and father are such good friends but each has a different spouse and a new family. So there are many mothers and stepmothers and stepfathers and stepbrothers and stepsisters and—Oh! to hell with it!

So these children have never had the warmth and friendship of a loving family. When they were young, there was always someone to look after them, particularly if the parents were well off. If there was no money, the children somehow grew up on the streets or among relatives.

There was no warmth for the child, for the mother had her own problems, especially the problem of holding on to a man who had a sharp eye and wandering feet. That's how she got him, in the first place. And he who wearied of No. 1, also wearied of No. 2, and in time of No. 3, because life is like that. He had a wearying nature. And the lady of the house could not let a brat come between her and her happiness. After all, she is entitled to happiness. Everybody is.

This has become one of America's major problems. This country suffers from excessive divorce; from broken homes; from delinquent children, rich as well as poor, because they lack parental direction; from premarital sex relations which have curious psychological overtones; from homosexuality which needs a more accurate and honest study than has yet appeared.

In a word, the problems of love and marriage, of delinquency as a product of the broken home need study not only by a statistic-loving sociologist but by a moral philosopher if there are any.

It is possible these days to come across illegitimate children who tell their tales with great glee. They are covering up a great sorrow and a greater loss. Such a person needs a friend, an honest friend who will try to fill a void. For the greatest void of all is that there is no one to talk to, no one who can be approached frankly and honestly.

A child brought up in a quiet, normal home, where father and mother love each other without too much ado, has before it a constant example of what can make for happiness. A child, however, who is brought up in a family where the parents are watching each other, accusing each other, preparing for divorces and such, becomes very keen and sharp. Not understanding, the child paints an imaginary picture which may be very false but which colors the child's life forever.

Among the rich, such children's lives are often wrecked by the chit-chat of governesses and other servants who say what they choose and also by the child being left alone too much. It is psychological murder.

Years ago, I made a little study, for my own purposes, of a small group of millionaire Communists. It does not matter whether they were Communists or socialists or Christian missionaries among the Zulus. They were sad, young people who hated a father or a mother, or who had a guilt complex concerning the way the family fortune was made, or who had had such a lonely childhood as no orphan Annie could have known.

President Kennedy often emphasizes physical fitness, but that is hardly enough to make a strong nation. We need to strengthen the morale and the morals of the family if we are to survive as a great nation.

Greater Strength Hath No Man

How Harsh Can Chinese Reds Afford To Be?

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

The government experts who study such matters are beginning to say that this year's harvest in Communist China will be only marginally different from the catastrophic harvests of the last three years.

Put like that, the news sounds dry-as-dust. But if the experts' extremely tentative forecasts are proved correct, this may be one of those moments when the strong tides of history quite suddenly begin to run in a quite new direction.

The point is that another indifferent or bad harvest will certainly endanger, and may just possibly destroy, the existing Communist government in China. Not long since, such a development appeared to be unthinkable. But it has to be thought about today, and it is being thought about, by the leaders of the Soviet Union and the other Communist states among others, if one may judge by a striking change of tone.

Until only a few months ago, Soviet and satellite diplomats and other representatives uniformly said in effect of their Chinese comrades, "They have some pretty serious problems; but you'll see, they'll solve them." But now the standard comment on the Chinese situation is in effect: "They are in a dreadful mess." The disappearance of any prediction of a happy outcome is what is striking.

In the same fashion, the small minority in the U. S. government who have never ruled out an eventual convulsion in Communist China are now beginning to gain certain new recruits. This minority has always had logic on its side. And events in China are making the logic of the situation more vivid and convincing.

Logically, there must be limits to the degree of hardship even the sternest police state can inflict upon its people without running into trouble of some kind. The limits are not easy to define, since they depend upon a score of local factors. But their existence is very easy to prove, simply by taking an extreme case.

For example, there are few problems now confronting Mao Tse-tung and his colleagues which could not be easily solved if China's population were only reduced by 30 per cent. Suppose, then, that the order went out to march 30 per cent of the Chinese people to the public slaughterhouses, would Mao's army, however well treated, then remain loyal? Would his police, however well disciplined, continue to be reliable? The answer is obvious.

The undefined limits of harshness which Mao's government cannot safely go beyond are in turn beginning to be an interesting problem for the simplest possible reason. Communist China more and more appears to be caught in a remorselessly descending economic spiral.

The downward spiral began with the fearful plunge into misery experienced by the Chinese masses in 1959, when the "great leap forward" was attempted and the farm communes were inaugurated. Since then the Chinese Communist leaders have changed their policies, revised their aims, and indulged in every sort of self-reversal and tergiversation, on both industrial and agricultural fronts.

Each year's remedies have been more radical than the previous year's. Each year has also been worse than the previous year. This year's remedies can only be described as desperate. For example, 30 per cent of China's urban population has now been ordered to go back to the countryside, because food stocks are low in the cities, and because urban jobs are few with industry operating at only one-third of capacity.

But the countryside has been in the grip of creeping starvation for three grim years on end. This spring, the best Hong Kong statistics showed an average food intake of 1,300 to 1,600 calories per person per day, according to the individual's labor category. And into this hunger-wracked countryside, millions, literally many millions, of ejected town and city dwellers are being sent with no apparent provision of either work or rations.

In Kwangtung province, the start of this process begot the recent assault on the Hong Kong border by a great flood of refugees. No one can say what the effects of this same process will be in the rest of China; but it is clear that the effects can hardly be socially healthy or politically stabilizing.

In sum, it begins to look as if Communist China were approaching the safe limits of harshness. It begins to look, therefore, as though a titanic internal crisis may lie ahead in China.

If the experts are wrong, and the harvest is generous, there will be no crisis. But if the experts are right about the harvest, the question of American food for China can well become urgent. It will be examined in another report.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Sir:

This letter is written immediately after the "Battle of Mt. Pleasant" which took place at Layman's Farm near Wright's Cross. This was a wonderful experience for all those who viewed it. Frostburg and the Sesquicentennial officials are to be congratulated on this event and the many others which served so well to commemorate Frostburg's founding.

The writer of this letter is a candidate for Congressman at Large, that is from the whole state of Maryland. As such I came to Frostburg, and I have campaigned freely in Frostburg and at the exit from Layman's Farm. It seems to me that this should occasion no criticism, inasmuch as I have been very careful to avoid any interruption of any event. During the battle, it seemed to me that campaigning would have been out of place. After the battle it seemed to me entirely proper to make myself known to as many of the people present as could conveniently be done. If campaigning were to be confined to political rallies of one party or the other, voters of one party would never have a chance to meet the candidates of the opposite party.

I am writing this letter because one of the officials was of the opinion that some people might misconstrue my campaigning, perhaps assuming that I had received some special favor, or even perhaps sponsorship of some kind. I want it stated for the record that what I did was entirely on my own. My opponent or any other candidate could have done the same thing. No favoritism of any kind whatsoever occurred.

I have great respect for the official to whom I have referred, and I want to emphasize that what I did was without even his knowledge, let alone assistance or authorization.

When a candidate is running statewide, as I am, for a seat in Congress of the at-large variety, a variety which has never occurred before in Maryland's history, he is forced to go to the people wherever they may be found. I found my campaigning was welcomed. I will continue to try to exercise the maximum of fact and common sense in the future, as I have endeavored to in the past.

Yours sincerely,

Wise Owls Owe Sight To Use Of Safety Goggles

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Safety goggles are a must for workers in foundries and shops where flying particles are likely to be encountered. They should be worn also by men working in their basement workshops, especially when sawing or grinding. Many eyes have been damaged beyond repair by a small sliver or tiny piece of steel.

It is not an easy job to persuade men to wear safety goggles while on the job. They complain that the glasses get in the way, interfere with vision, or feel uncomfortable. But the majority fall in line when they talk to someone whose sight was saved because of wearing goggles.

There is an organization made up of men who owe the sight of one or both eyes to goggles containing strong glass. It is the Wise Owl club and is patterned after the Caterpillar club of the United States air force, which is made up of flyers who foiled death by using a parachute when their plane went out of control.

The Wise Owl club is under the direction of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness and has hundreds of chapters throughout the country. To appreciate the significance of this movement it is necessary to examine the glasses worn by the members: some were shattered or cracked in the mishap, whereas others have holes in them. In each instance, vision was preserved.

Chemical burns of the eyes can be almost as disastrous. Water is one of the best antidotes but, to be effective, must be used immediately. The best plan is to fill the washbowl with water and submerge the head, including the eyes. Opening and closing the lids under water helps remove the irritant.

As an alternate, hold the lids open while pouring water or saline over the eyeball. In chemical plants, where there is danger of injuries of this nature, saline usually is kept in a bottle suspended from the wall with a stoppered tube attached. When a burn occurs, the individual sits beneath the bottle to have the eye washed out.

12 YEAR OLD BEDWETTER

Mrs. S. W. writes: My 12 year old son still wets the bed and the doctor says he is emotionally insecure. I give him much love and affection and give in to him a lot, as I hate to see him go into one of his tantrums. The boy's father doesn't pay too much attention to him — doesn't take him on outings as other fathers do. Do you think a child psychiatrist is needed?

REPLY

Yes, but I must warn you that most child psychiatrists treat the parents.

MAGPIE MOTHER

M. L. writes: How can I impress on my constantly chattering mother the importance of quiet and moments of meditation?

REPLY

I doubt if you can. If the "talk, talk, talk" is a manifestation of senility, your physician might prescribe a sedative or tranquilizer to tone down your mother's chatter. Another possibility is to divert her attention with little chores, out of door activity, or radio or TV programs.

TONSIL INFECTION

M. H. writes: Do infected and enlarged tonsils in children ever clear up and become normal?

REPLY

They usually return to normal size after a bout of tonsillitis unless the bacteria become entrenched or an abscess forms within the tonsil.

TOMORROW: Salmonella infections.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Kennedy's Major Tax Adjustment Proposals Ready For Congress

By Drew Pearson

emptions for American residents abroad.

GOP Advises

Whether or not this tax program, in all or in part, gets to Congress will depend on various factors: 1, how fast Kennedy will appease business; 2, how much he listens to his liberal advisers; 3, how much he listens to his conservative friends.

Believe it or not, Kennedy's two chief advisers are Republicans. Doug Dillon, once a member of the Eisenhower Cabinet, spent his life as a Wall Street banker. He's opposed to any quickie tax cuts, wants a balanced program of both tax cuts and closing of tax loopholes to compensate for loss of revenue.

Supporting Dillon is another Republican adviser, William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Martin married the daughter of Dwight Davis, donor of the Davis Cup and Secretary of War under Coolidge. He is against inflation, has been arguing with Kennedy that a stand must be taken against it. Further throwing the budget out of balance by tax reduction, Martin argues, is no way to combat inflation.

At the moment, both Dillon and Martin are reported softening.

"We Hate Jack"

The anti-Kennedy gnashing of teeth along Wall Street now puts the hate-Roosevelt era in the shade.

No recent President has had such abuse from business, not even FDR and Harry Truman.

Right after the stock market crash, this column reported that business leaders had quietly put their heads together in an unofficial sitdown strike against the administration. They tacitly agreed to hold back investment funds for new capital improvements, to close down borderline plants and get a carry-back tax loss from the government, and to pump their money into foreign investments rather than those in the U.S.A.

These tactics have begun to work — with mounting force and crescendo. It's one reason for the administration's rapid retreat.

However, the hate-Kennedy sentiment has not abated even though the President is turning the other cheek. It's doubtful if it will abate. For both FDR and Harry Truman found that business leaders were difficult to appease.

Truman started out claiming he could get along with businessmen, that he knew how to treat them. He discovered just the opposite. The more you appease business, he once told friends, the more they take advantage of you.

Roosevelt was by no means tough on business at the first. He brought U. S. Steel executives into his administration, gave industry the inside track in ordering the Army, Navy, and Air Force.

But business kept badgering Roosevelt so unmercifully that eventually he turned against them. Some administration leaders predict J. F. Kennedy will do the same.

Merry-Go-Round

President Kennedy and Secretary of State Rusk are in constant communication with each other. Sometimes they are on the phone together in the middle of the night. Yet they never call each other "Jack" and "Dean." Even at their sleepiest, it is "Mr. President" and "Mr. Secretary." . . . Ex-President Eisenhower got stalled in a traffic jam during his last trip from Washington's Walter Reed Hospital to his home in Gettysburg. He spoke longingly of those Presidential helicopters he gave up 18 months ago . . . Movie star Kirk Douglas never ran into a tougher director than Capitol photographer Dev O'Neill, who recently shot pictures of the actor posing with Speaker John McCormack. "Move in closer, Mr. Douglas," shouted O'Neill. "Newspaper editors believe in economy. They don't like to pay for empty spaces in news-photos." . . . O'Neill also ordered McCormack, the nation's third-ranking leader, to hand his cigar to an aide and remove some bulging papers from his pockets, causing Douglas to comment that no Hollywood director could have gotten away with it. "President Eisenhower used to have a different term for us," shot back O'Neill saucily. "He called us dictators."

Satire And Humor

By Victor S. Navasky

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be written by guests. Today's contributor is Victor S. Navasky, editor of Monocle, a quarterly of political satire in the process of converting to a monthly.)

"Why," I have been asked, "does America need another humor magazine?" I assume the "another" refers to the fact that we already have a passel of humor magazines—Life, McCall's, Time, The Reader's Digest, etc. Actually I don't believe that America does need another humor magazine. What America really needs is a satire magazine, and a political satire magazine at that.

The difference between humor and satire is the difference between attacking Ike and attacking Jack. James Thurber once observed: "Humor makes its own balances and patterns out of the disorganization of life around it . . ." Thus Ike was a natural subject for humor. Every time he gave a speech he sounded like a dictated-but-not-read recording of a U. S. Army Manual on the Use of the M-1 Rifle. He inspired the Gettysburg Address in Eisenhowerese ("I haven't checked these figures yet, but eighty-seven years ago I think it was . . .") His administration had some of the aspects of a situation comedy ("Life with a Father Figure") which one had only to report to ridicule.

Jack, whose public utterances are as polished as the spittoon at the Harvard Club, is a different cup of chowder. Thurber anticipated Jack's administration when he went on to say that the disorganization which gives rise to humor "has been wiped out by organization . . . group action . . . and the like. These are good for satire but they put a strait jacket on humor." The Kennedy shop, with its task forces, surveys, statistics, Lou Harris polls, etc., is more organized than the personnel section at IBM. When the U-2 went down, Ike's popularity went down with it. But when the mud settled in the Bay of Pigs, Jack got everyone from Harry Truman to Gen. MacArthur to endorse one of the greatest diplomatic blunders in American history, and his popularity galloped onward and upward.

And Jack has recognized the uses of wit. At a recent Madison Square Garden medicare rally for the aged, he told 20,000 "senior citizens" "average income probably around $2,000 per year": "I just came from a visit to the hospital to my father . . . He can pay his bills. (Laughter.) But if he couldn't I would have to — and I'm not as well off as he is. (Roars)" This is all part of the Kennedy style, which is built to frustrate the kind of humor aimed at Ike—an affectionate humor harking back to Will Rogers, the man who said, "I don't make jokes. I just watch the government and report the facts." If the New Frontier's facade is to come tumbling down, stronger stuff is needed. We must look beyond the Will Rogers tradition to that of Mark Twain, Peter Finley Dunne, H. L. Mencken, and Ring Lardner, who drew their victims' blood without hesitation. Nor is such satire a negative enterprise. As a wise old Englishman once put it: "No tyrant, no tyrannous idea ever came crashing to earth but it was first wounded by the shafts of satire; no free man, no free idea ever rose to the heights but it endured them."

England has Punch. France has Le Canard Enchaîné. Germany has Simplicissimus. Italy has Candico. Argentina has Tia Vincente—topical satire magazines all. America, where such satire is enjoying a renaissance in the night spots (Mort Sahl, Dick Gregory, The Premise) and the press (Jules Feiffer, Walt Kelly), and even a boomlet in the novel ("The Manchurian Candidate," "Catch 22"), certainly seems ready and ripe for a political satire magazine of its own. Plenty of our magazines are in the business of providing The Truth. What this country needs is a publication in the business of exposing the half-truth. There are few more effective instruments available toward this end than wit, caricature, mockery, irony, ridicule, and satire.

Some people say contemporary life is too grim to satirize. Others say it is too absurd. I say it is too grim and absurd not to satirize. I don't happen to be one of those who believe that Francis Gary Powers should have used the poison pin; but to me, the silence and solemnity which surrounded his grotesque rehabilitation before a Congressional investigating committee indicate the need for an irreverent magazine, unafraid to use the poison pen.

Remember 'Fiscal Responsibility'?

A federal budget $7 billion in the red certainly leaves little room for consolation, although the peacetime record—at $12.4 billion—still belongs to the Eisenhower administration in spending its way out of the 1958 business slump.

What about the budget for the fiscal year just started? Last January President Kennedy forecast the government would wind up the year with a $463 million surplus, based on a $92.5 billion spending program and predicted revenues of $93 billion.

Since then the slender anticipated surplus has gradually drifted to the minus side and, although the White House has made no official pronouncement, the current talk in the Treasury Building puts the deficit around $4.5 billion.

This figure, of course, takes no account of a possible tax cut. If Congress should act favorably at this session the present estimate of a $4.5 billion deficit would be a joke. But no one seems afraid of huge deficits any more. Appeals for tax cuts to spur the economy have come from all directions.

This is not to argue against a tax cut. Certainly taxes are too high. But it does seem curious that some of the nation's most conservative elements are currently agreed those once-cherished words, "fiscal responsibility," should be consigned to Mr. Kennedy's collected myths, clichés and legends.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Broken Homes

A humorist who apparently is a lawyer because he writes me on the stationery of a Bar Association, sends me this letter which is undoubtedly meant to be a rebuttal of the Supreme Court's attempt to throw God out of the Tax-supported schools:

"My good friend is writing this for me.
"You see, I'm Johnny and can't read or write. The ops say I'm a juvenile delinquent. The social worker says I'm the product of a broken home and a culturally deprived neighborhood. Da Teach says I'm an educational problem and almost impossible.

"A funny thing happened before school broke up. I asked Da Teach: 'Who is God and why should we trust in Him?'"

"Da Teach said it's an expression and can't be answered in class because of the Supreme Court."

I was not thinking of the Supreme Court at the moment. It rather occurred to me that I had recently met several children of complex families—you know, mother and father are such good friends but each has a different spouse and a new family. So there are many mothers and stepmothers and stepfathers and stepbrothers and stepsisters and—Oh! to hell with it!

So these children have never had the warmth and friendship of a loving family. When they were young, there was always someone to look after them, particularly if the parents were well off. If there was no money, the children somehow grew up on the streets or among relatives.

There was no warmth for the child, for the mother had her own problems, especially the problem of holding on to a man who had a sharp eye and wandering feet. That's how she got him, in the first place. And he who wearied of No. 1, also wearied of No. 2, and in time of No. 3, because life is like that. He had a wearying nature. And the lady of the house could not let a brat come between her and her happiness. After all, she is entitled to happiness. Everybody is.

This has become one of America's major problems. This country suffers from excessive divorce; from broken homes; from delinquent children, rich as well as poor, because they lack parental direction; from premarital sex relations which have curious psychological overtones; from homosexuality which needs a more accurate and honest study than has yet appeared.

In a word, the problems of love and marriage, of delinquency as a product of the broken home need study not only by a statistic-loving sociologist but by a moral philosopher if there are any.

It is possible these days to come across illegitimate children who tell their tales with great glee. They are covering up a great sorrow and a greater loss. Such a person needs a friend, an honest friend who will try to fill a void. For the greatest void of all is that there is no one to talk to, no one who can be approached frankly and honestly.

A child brought up in a quiet, normal home, where father and mother love each other without too much ado, has before it a constant example of what can make for happiness. A child, however, who is brought up in a family where the parents are watching each other, accusing each other, preparing for divorces and such, becomes very keen and sharp. Not understanding, the child paints an imaginary picture which may be very false but which colors the child's life forever.

Kennedy's Major Tax Adjustment Proposals Ready For Congress

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Here are the chief tax cuts which have been worked over by the Treasury for submission to Congress if and when the President decides to propose quickie tax cuts at this session of Congress:

Reduction of the corporation tax from 52 per cent to 46.

Reduction of top bracket personal income taxes from 92 per cent to 64.

Reduction of lower bracket personal income taxes from 20 to 15 per cent.

Capital gains taxes — would be increased for a six-month turnover to 35 per cent, instead of 25.

A nine-month turnover would pay 30 per cent.

A one-year turnover would pay 25 per cent, the present rate.

A three-year gains would pay only 10 per cent.

The capital gains shuffle is aimed at discouraging too much speculation on the stock market.

Here are the loopholes which the administration wants plugged in return for tax reduction:

The 27½ per cent oil and gas depletion allowance.

Tax deferral for U. S. companies operating abroad. Profits would be withdrawn, and therefore taxed, every year.

Elimination of interest as a tax deduction, including interest on homes. The Treasury claims this is the same as rent, and therefore not deductible.

Eliminate or else curtain exemptions for American residents abroad.

GOP Advises

Whether or not this tax program, in all or in part, gets to Congress will depend on various factors: 1, how fast Kennedy will appease business; 2, how much he listens to his liberal advisers; 3, how much he listens to his conservative friends.

Believe it or not, Kennedy's two chief advisers are Republicans. Doug Dillon, once a member of the Eisenhower Cabinet, spent his life as a Wall Street banker. He's opposed to any quickie tax cuts, wants a balanced program of both tax cuts and closing of tax loopholes to compensate for loss of revenue.

Supporting Dillon is another Republican adviser, William McCleskey Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board. Martin married the daughter of Dwight Davis, donor of the Davis Cup and Secretary of War under Coolidge. He is against inflation, has been arguing with Kennedy that a stand must be taken against it. Further throwing the budget out of balance by tax reduction, Martin argues, is no way to combat inflation.

At the moment, both Dillon and Martin are reported softening.

"We Hate Jack"

The anti-Kennedy gnashing of teeth along Wall Street now puts the hate-Roosevelt era in the shade.

No recent President has had such abuse from business, not even FDR and Harry Truman.

Right after the stock market crash, this column reported that business leaders had quietly put their heads together in an unofficial sitdown strike against the administration. They tacitly agreed to hold back investment funds for new capital improvements, to close down borderline plants and get a carry-back tax loss from the government, and to pump their money into foreign investments rather than those in the USA.

These tactics have begun to work — with mounting force and crescendo. It's one reason for the administration's rapid retreat.

Satire And Humor

By Victor S. Navasky

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be written by guests. Today's contributor is Victor S. Navasky, editor of Monocle, a quarterly of political satire in the process of converting to a monthly).

"Why," I have been asked, "does America need another humor magazine?" I assume the "another" refers to the fact that we already have a passel of humor magazines—Life, McCall's, Time, The Reader's Digest, etc. Actually I don't believe that America does need another humor magazine. What America really needs is a satire magazine, and a political satire magazine at that.

The difference between humor and satire is the difference between attacking Ike and attacking Jack. James Thurber once observed: "Humor makes its own balances and patterns out of the disorganization of life around it." Thus Ike was a natural subject for humor. Every time he gave a speech he sounded like a dictated-but-not-read recording of a U. S. Army Manual on the Use of the M-1 Rifle. He inspired the Gettysburg Address in Eisenhower. "I haven't checked these figures yet, but eighty-seven years ago I think it was . . ." His administration had some of the aspects of a situation comedy ("Life with a Father Figure") which one had only to report to ridicule.

Jack, whose public utterances are as polished as the spittoon at the Harvard Club, is a different cup of chowder. Thurber anticipated Jack's administration when he went on to say that the disorganization which gives rise to humor "has been wiped out by organization . . . group action . . . and the like. These are good for satire but they put a strait jacket on humor." The Kennedy shop, with its task forces, surveys, statistics, Lou Harris polls, etc., is more organized than the personnel section at IBM. When the U-2 went down, Ike's popularity went down with it. But when the mud settled in the Bay of Pigs, Jack got everyone from Harry Truman to Gen. MacArthur to endorse one of the greater diplomatic blunders in American history, and his popularity galloped onward and upward.

And Jack has recognized the uses of wit. At a recent Madison Square Garden mediocre rally for the aged, he told 20,000 "senior citizens" (average income

However, the hate-Kennedy sentiment has not abated even though the President is turning the other cheek. It's doubtful if it will abate. For both FDR and Harry Truman found that business leaders were difficult to appease.

Truman started out claiming he could get along with businessmen, that he knew how to treat them. He discovered just the opposite. The more you appease business, he once told friends, the more they take advantage of you.

Roosevelt was by no means tough on business at the first. He brought U. S. Steel executives into his administration, gave industry the inside track in ordering the Army, Navy, and Air Force.

But business kept badgering Roosevelt so unmercifully that eventually he turned against them. Some administration leaders predict J. F. Kennedy will do the same.

Merry-Go-Round

President Kennedy and Secretary of State Rusk are in constant communication with each other. Sometimes they are on the phone together in the middle of the night. Yet they never call each other "Jack" and "Dean." Even at their sleepiest, it is "Mr. President" and "Mr. Secretary."

Ex-President Eisenhower got stalled in a traffic jam during his last trip from Washington's Walter Reed Hospital to his home in Gettysburg. He spoke longingly of those Presidential helicopters he gave up 18 months ago . . .

Movie star Kirk Douglas never ran into a tougher director than Capitol photographer Dev O'Neill, who recently shot pictures of the actor posing with Speaker John McCormack. "Move in closer, Mr. Douglas," shouted O'Neill. "Newspaper editors believe in economy. They don't like to pay for empty spaces in news-photos."

O'Neill also ordered McCormack, the nation's third-ranking leader, to hand his cigar to an aide and remove some bulging papers from his pockets, causing Douglas to comment that no Hollywood director could have gotten away with it. "President Eisenhower used to have a different term for us," shot back O'Neill saucily. "He called us dictators."

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

They say a burly, tough hombre strode into an Arizona bar one night and demanded, "A Diamondback with Four Rattles." Just then a violent earthquake struck and the whole bar was demolished. From the wreckage came the voice of the stranger. "Say, I ain't got a kick like that out of a drink in years. Mix me another one, boy!"

An American in Aberdeen called up the police station and reported, "In front of the McTavish National Bank, there are two Scotsmen who are violently insane." "What makes you think that?" asked the lieutenant. "They must be," explained the American. "One is throwing his money away on the street and the other is picking it up and handing it back to him."

"The new baby," observed Grandma proudly, "has his granny's eyes and his granny's nose." Then she added, "But if his fatuous grandfather doesn't stop leaning over that crib, it will have his teeth!"

"I suppose she does bring out the beast in him," conceded a chorus girl, discussing her roommate's latest romance, "but it's okay: she's not afraid of mice."

Buskey's 76, Gratton's 77 Qualify For Maryland Open Tourney

CCC Golfers In 36-Hole Final Today

Jackson Fails With An 85; Dick Whetzle Leads Field With 71

Richard Buskey, assistant professional, and Joseph Gratton, amateur, of the Cumberland Country Club, qualified for the Maryland Open Golf Tournament yesterday at the Woodmont Country Club, Rockville, by posting scores of 76 and 77, respectively.

Buskey carded a 38-36-76 for the par 36-72 course.

Gratton had a 36-41-77.

Orville "Stony" Jackson had a 44-41-85 and failed to qualify.

Scores of 80 or better were needed to qualify for Tuesday's 36-hole medal play test.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Dick Whetzle, of Woodholme Country Club, shot a hole-in-one and took a two-stroke lead in the first round of the Maryland Open Golf Tournament Monday with a one-under par 71.

John Hendraxe of Sparrows Point and Walter Romans of the Baltimore Country Club tied for second at 73 ahead of a pair of amateurs—17-year-old Dick Kress, one of Whetzle's proteges at Woodholme, and Bobby Brownell, the veteran from Chevy Chase who won the open 21 years ago.

The field of 119 which started out over the 7,007-yard par 36-72 Woodmont Country Club course was cut to the low 60 and ties for Tuesday's double round climax of the 54-hole tournament. Scores of 80 or better were needed to qualify for the final day.

Playing with Deane Berman of Bethesda Country Club, Whetzle aced the seventh hole, his second hole-in-one within two weeks. At the time he knocked a five iron shot into the cup on the 193-yard hole, Whetzle was three over par and headed for a disappointing round.

But the ace gave him a boost and he followed with a six-foot birdie putt on the ninth to make the turn in even par. He went one under with a 20-foot birdie putt on the 11th, but lost the stroke with a bogey on the 12th. He wasn't under par again until the final hole when he hit a wedge shot four feet from the cup and dropped in another birdie.

Dub Jones Joins Houston As Coach

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Oilers announced Monday that Dub Jones, one of professional football's all-time great pass receivers, will help the American Football League champions in preseason drills as a coach.

Jones, an all-pro halfback with the Cleveland Browns in 1951 and 1952, will work with Oilers ends until the regular season starts. It was his first football job since retiring as a player in 1955.

During his career at Cleveland, Jones became the first flanker back when coach Paul Brown moved him out wide of the rest of the backfield. The position is standard with pro clubs now.

Gurley's Wins Over Vets, 5-4

Toy Shop, Curl's Notch Victories

Gurley's, although held to seven singles, parlayed them into a 5-4 triumph over the V.F.W. yesterday at Allegany field to register its sixth straight Rec Baseball League victory.

The win enabled the league leaders to maintain their one game edge over runner-up Curl's Camera Shop which downed Bernstein's, 4-3, at Sutcher Field. In the third contest, Toy Shop tallied four times in the first inning and made them hold up for a 4-0 win over Forty & Eight at Fort Hill field.

Bill Rawnsley outdueled Howard Reynolds as Gurley's took a 5-1 lead, then stopped a Vets rally that produced three runs in the sixth. Rawnsley struck out six Vets while Reynolds recorded seven strikeouts.

Reynolds and Lewis had two hits apiece for the losers. Rich Robinson's catch of a line drive off Bobby Henry's bat in center field for Gurley's was the game's outstanding defensive play.

Louis Hartung doubled home a pair of runs to cap the four-run rally by Toy Shop in the initial inning and Wayne Jewell made the tallies hold up for a shutout victory over Forty & Eight.

Jewell whiffed six and held the losers to four singles, two by John Roy. Jim Powelson, the loser, allowed only five bingles and whiffed 10, but was victim to the first-inning outburst by Toy Shop. Jimmy Arrowood belted a triple for the victors.

Tommy Sticher was the victim of Curl's comeback when the second of Ed Martin's two singles drove in the winning run after a pair of walks in the seventh. Bobby Lowe had a double for the winners. Sticher and Dump Wallace banged out a triple and single apiece for Bernstein's. The results:

The Cardinals won their fourth straight game and sixth of the season yesterday, turning back the Pirates, 6-1, at Post field in a Dapper Division contest in the Dapper Dan Little League.

The division leaders salted away the game in the first inning when they plated three runs against loser Oscar Lewis. Dave Coffman struck out nine and gave up but four hits in posting his initial mound victory for the Red Birds.

Pat Adams collected two singles and Craig Grim, Dave Joy and Walter Davis each had two-baggers for the winners. Oscar Lewis hit a double and Alvin Fadeley starred in centerfield with several nice catches for the losers.

In a morning contest at Constitution Park, the Giants took advantage of sloppy play by the Phillies to hand the defending champions their fourth setback, 8-4.

Danny Young, taking over for starter Rusty Kunis, stopped the Phillies on one hit over the last five frames, striking out 11 and walking four to pick up the victory.

Gary Knowlton, who relieved starter Gary Lashley for the Phillies in the first, absorbed the loss when the Giants rallied for four runs in the fourth to overcome a 4-3 deficit.

Triples by George Davies and Billy Adams, plus a single, walk and three errors highlighted the Giants rally.

Kunis collected a single and double and Steve Clark had two singles for the winners while Timmy Hixson's three-run double in the first was the big blow for the Phillies who garnered only four hits. The results:

"Moose" McCormick, One-Time Giants' Star, Dies At 81

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Harry E. (Moose) McCormick, 81, pinch-hitting specialist who was involved in the Fred Merkle "boner" which cost the New York Giants the pennant in 1908, died Monday in Evangelical Community Hospital.

McCormick, an outfielder who saw most of his action as one of baseball's earliest great pinch-hitters, went on to careers at Bucknell University and West Point after playing with the Giants off and on from 1904 to 1914.

McCormick was on third base and would have scored the winning run on Al Bridwell's two-out single in the ninth in a crucial game with the Chicago Cubs Sept. 22, 1908. However, the run was nullified and the game declared a tie when Merkle, who was on first base, ran to the dressing room instead of going on to touch second base.

Cub second baseman Johnny Evers noticed the miscue, called for the ball and tagged second base, forcing out Merkle. The game could not be continued because the fans had swarmed over the field. Later, it was ruled a tie.

The Cubs and Giants then finished in a tie for first place and Chicago won the playoff game.

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP)—Dick Whetzel, of Woodholme Country Club, shot a hole-in-one and took a two-stroke lead in the first round of the Maryland Open Golf Tournament Monday with a one-under par 71.

John Hendrasek of Sparrows Point and Walter Romans of the Baltimore Country Club tied for second at 73 ahead of a pair of amateurs—17-year-old Dick Kress, one of Whetzel's proteges at Woodholme, and Bobby Brownell, the veteran from Chevy Chase who won the open 21 years ago.

The field of 119 which started out over the 7,007-yard par 36-36—72 Woodmont Country Club course was cut to the low 60 and tied for Tuesday's double round climax of the 54-hole tournament. Scores of 80 or better were needed to qualify for the final day.

Playing with Deane Beman of Bethesda Country Club, Whetzel ached the seventh hole, his second hole-in-one within two weeks, at the time he knocked a five iron shot into the cup on the 193-yard hole, Whetzel was three over par and headed for a disappointing round.

But the ace gave him a boost and he followed with a six-foot birdie putt on the ninth to make the turn in even par. He went one under with a 20-foot birdie putt on the 11th, but lost the stroke with a bogey on the 12th. He wasn't under par again until the final hole when he hit a wedge shot four feet from the cup and dropped in another birdie.

Dub Jones Joins Houston As Coach

HOUSTON (UPI)—The Houston Oilers announced Monday that Dub Jones, one of professional football's all-time great pass receivers, will help the American Football League champions in preseason drills as a coach.

Jones, an all-pro halfback with the Cleveland Browns in 1951 and 1952, will work with Oilers ends until the regular season starts. It was his first football job since retiring as a player in 1955.

During his career at Cleveland, Jones became the first flanker back when coach Paul Brown moved him out wide of the rest of the backfield. The position is standard with pro clubs now.

Gurley's Wins Over Vets, 5-4

Toy Shop, Curl's Notch Victories

Gurley's, although held to seven singles, parlayed them into a 5-4 triumph over the V.F.W. yesterday at Allegany field to register its sixth straight Rec Baseball League victory.

The win enabled the league leaders to maintain their one game edge over runner-up Curl's Camera Shop which downed Bernstein's, 4-3, at Stitcher Field. In the third contest, Toy Shop tallied four times in the first inning and made them hold up for a 4-0 win over Forty & Eight at Fort Hill field.

Bill Rawnsley outduelled Howard Reynolds as Gurley's took a 5-1 lead, then stopped a Vets rally that produced three runs in the sixth. Rawnsley struck out six Vets while Reynolds recorded seven strikeouts.

Reynolds and Lewis had two hits apiece for the losers. Rich Robinson's catch of a line drive off Bobby Henry's bat in center field for Gurley's was the game's outstanding defensive play.

Louis Hartung doubled home a pair of runs to cap the four-run rally by Toy Shop in the initial inning and Wayne Jewell made the tallies hold up for a shutout victory over Forty & Eight.

Jewell whiffed six and held the losers to four singles, two by John Roy. Jim Powelson, the loser, allowed only five bingles and whiffed 10, but was victim to the first-inning outburst by Toy Shop. Jimmy Arrowood belted a triple for the victors.

Tommy Sticher was the victim of Curl's comeback when the second of Ed Martin's two singles drove in the winning run after a pair of walks in the seventh. Bobby Lowe had a double for the winners. Sticher and Dump Wallace banged out a triple and single apiece for Bernstein's. The results:

Danny Young, taking over for starter Rusty Kunis, stopped the Phillies on one hit over the last five frames, striking out 11 and walking four to pick up the victory.

Gary Knowlton, who relieved starter Gary Lashley for the Phillies in the first, absorbed the loss when the Giants rallied for four runs in the fourth to overcome a 4-3 deficit.

Triples by George Davies and Billy Adams, plus a single, walk and three errors highlighted the Giants rally.

"Moose" McCormick, One-Time Giants' Star, Dies At 81

LEWISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Harry E. (Moose) McCormick, 81, pinch-hitting specialist who was involved in the Fred Merkle "boner" which cost the New York Giants the pennant in 1908, died Monday in Evangelical Community Hospital.

McCormick, an outfielder who saw most of his action as one of baseball's earliest great pinch-hitters, went on to careers at Bucknell University and West Point after playing with the Giants off and on from 1904 to 1914.

McCormick was on third base and would have scored the winning run on Al Bridwell's two-out single in the ninth in a crucial game with the Chicago Cubs Sept. 22, 1908. However, the run was nullified and the game declared a tie when Merkle, who was on first base, ran to the dressing room instead of going on to touch second base.

Cub second baseman Johnny Evers noticed the miscue, called for the ball and tagged second base, forcing out Merkle. The game could not be continued because the fans had swarmed over the field. Later, it was ruled a tie.

The Cubs and Giants then finished in a tie for first place and Chicago won the playoff game.

Major League Players Request Release From 162-Game Schedule

Two All-Star Games Yearly Will Continue

Schedule Causing Hardships; Friend, Turley Are Elected

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The major league baseball players decided unanimously Monday to ask release from the 162-game schedule and voted also to continue the two All-Star games at least through 1963.

The players' request for the schedule reduction will be forwarded by letter to Commissioner Ford Frick, who then will relay the request to the presidents of the American and National Leagues. The league heads are expected to act on the request at the major league meetings next winter.

Judge Robert C. Cannon, legal counsel for the players, stressed that while the players were unanimous in their decision to continue the two All-Star games, they are not "rebellious in any sense."

"The players are satisfied that the matter is now in good hands and that the commissioner will handle the problem properly and fairly."

"The players feel the present long schedule causes undue hardship in travel and playing conditions and want some relief from this schedule, whatever is feasible, whether it is 153, 154, 155, or 156 games."

Frank Scott, director of the Baseball Players' Association said present conditions result in unreasonable arrival hours and also cause too many doubleheaders such as day-night twin bills, to which they are unalterably opposed.

Scott said the players feel the two All-Star games are necessary in order to provide additional money that is necessary for the maintenance of the Players' Pension Fund, which last year was broadened to include managers in addition to the players and coaches.

The player representatives re-elected Bob Friend of Pittsburgh as the National League player representative and Bob Turley of the New York Yankees as the American League representative.

He succeeded Gene Woodling, who was sold by Washington to the New York Mets last month.

Major League Players Request Release From 162-Game Schedule

Two All-Star Games Yearly Will Continue

Schedule Causing Hardships; Friend, Turley Are Elected

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The major league baseball players decided unanimously Monday to ask release from the 162-game schedule and voted also to continue the two All-Star games at least through 1963.

The players' request for the schedule reduction will be forwarded by letter to Commissioner Ford Frick, who then will relay the request to the presidents of the American and National Leagues. The league heads are expected to act on the request at the major league meetings next winter.

Judge Robert C. Cannon, legal counsel for the players, stressed that while the players were unanimous in their decision to continue the two All-Star games, they are not "rebellious in any sense."

"The players are satisfied that the matter is now in good hands and that the commissioner will handle the problem properly and fairly."

"The players feel the present long schedule causes undue hardship in travel and playing conditions and want some relief from this schedule, whatever is feasible, whether it is 153, 154, 155, or 156 games."

Frank Scott, director of the Baseball Players' Association said present conditions result in unreasonable arrival hours and also cause too many doubleheaders, such as day-night twin bills, to which they are unalterably opposed.

Scott said the players feel the two All-Star games are necessary in order to provide additional money that is necessary for the maintenance of the Players' Pension Fund, which last year was broadened to include managers in addition to the players and coaches.

The player representatives re-elected Bob Friend of Pittsburgh as the National League player representative and Bob Turley of the New York Yankees as the American League representative, who was sold by Washington to the New York Mets last month.

The Tigers padded their Dan Division lead in the Dapper Dan Little League yesterday by trimming the Angels, 16-2, at Constitution Park for their sixth win in seven decisions this season.

Meanwhile at East Side, the Dodgers climbed into a tie for third by topping the last-place Twins in a slugfest, 14-10.

Mervin Uhl notched his fourth mound triumph for the Tigers, going three innings as his mates piled up a 13-0 lead. Rick Scaletta, Tim Finnan, Uhl, Glenn Cross and Tommy Geatz each collected three bingles in the 19-hit Tiger attack. Jay Wilt starred in right field for the Angels who were held to three singles. Larry Crabtree took the loss.

The Dodgers came up with two big innings, five in the first and seven in the third to beat the Twins who now have a 1-6 record. The win gave the Dodgers a 4-3 mark and tied them with the Angels for third in the Dan Division.

John Aldridge picked up his first pitching victory in relief while Paul Gilbert, the starter, was the loser for the Twins. Aldridge: George Geatz and Poncho Klosterman banged out a single and home run each for the winners while Mark Nies chimed in with three singles. Geatz also excelled afield at short for the winners.

Manager Bert Lawler's Kiwanis Club tossers registered their sixth straight Hot Stove League victory last night, beating the Elks, 7-4, in the first of two games played last night at Penn Avenue field. In the nightcap, the runner-up Salvation Army posted a 3-1 verdict over the defending champion Cumberland Optimists.

In another league encounter at Mason Road field, B'nai B'rith continued its strong challenge to the league leaders by downing the Jaycees, 7-5, in an eight-inning battle. It was their third win in a row and fourth in their last five encounters.

Bobby Klinger gained his first mound triumph for the Kiwanis although he needed relief help from Dave Bruce in the seventh when he developed a blister on his pitching hand. Jimmy Joyce was the loser for the Elks.

Bobby Koelker banged out three hits and had three runs batted in for the victors while Bruce chipped in with a pair of singles. Joyce obtained a single and double for the Elks.

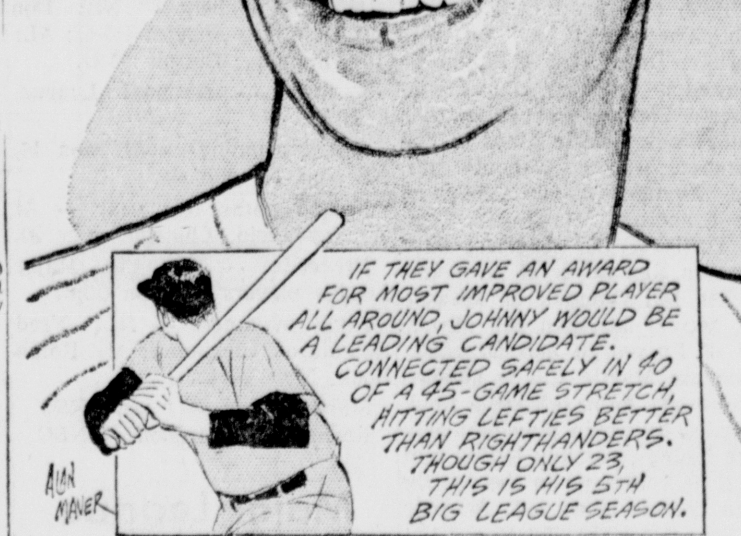

Salvation Army got strong pitching from Larry "Butch" Wolfe who tossed a two-hitter as the Armymen downed the Optimists in the nightcap of the twinbill at Penn Avenue.

Wolfe fanned 13 Optimists and walked six in going the route for his second win of the year as he bested Oliver Newcomer in a pitching duel. Newcomer allowed eight hits and whiffed eight in his losing effort. Rip Coulahan cracked out two doubles and a single to pace the Salvation Army attack while Wolfe belted a triple and Jimmy Decker had two singles. Stan Twigg garnered both Cumberland Optimists singles.

Gaiters Inks Pact

NEW YORK (UPI)—Halfback Bobby Gaiters, the New York Giants' leading rookie last season, returned his signed National Football League contract Monday for the 1962 campaign.

Gaiters, who figures to be the Giants' No. 1 running halfback, was the club's second-leading ground-gainer last season behind Alex Webster. Gaiters rushed for 467 yards, and adding his yardage on pass-catchers and kick returns, he gained a total of 813 yards.

Brent Boore starred at second for the Optimists.

A costly throwing error in the eighth inning enabled B'nai B'rith to score two runs to edge the Jaycees. Mike Wilt got the verdict over loser Curtis Kime.

The B'rithmen, down 5-0 at one time, rallied as Tommy Clay belted a grand-slam homer for four runs in the sixth and then tied the score in the seventh with a single tally. Clay also banged out a three-bagger for the winners while Bill Reed and Mike Wilt, the winning pitcher, had a pair of hits apiece. Hal Daugherty's double was the big blow for the Optimists. Snead Paces 17 Americans In British Open With 69

Nagle's 65 Leads Qualifiers; Arnold Palmer Cards 76

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY
UPI Sports Writer

TROON, Scotland (UPI)—Sam Snead, America's 50-year-old golfing gaffer, shot a three-under-par 69 on the first qualifying round of the British Open championship Monday but ailing Arnold Palmer and glamor-boy Jack Nicklaus carded 76's that threatened them with early elimination.

Snead's 34-35 on the tough old Troon course was by far the best score of the 17 Americans who played Monday, although it still left him four strokes behind a record 65 shot by Australia's Kel Nagle, the first-day leader.

Palmer, the U.S. Masters champion and defending title-holder in this tournament, was beset by a strained hip muscle, an upset stomach and serious putting miseries as he shot a 39-37 on the Troon layout.

Nicklaus, the 22-year-old Columbus, Ohio, rookie pro who won U.S. Open crown, also putted poorly as he turned in a 38-33 at Troon.

Fires Nine Birdies

Nagle, who won this tournament in 1960, fired nine birdies in a blistering 34-31 round on the neighboring Loch Green course to take the first-day lead by one stroke over amateur Martin Christmas, an English Walker Cup player.

Nagle's round broke the competitive course record of 66 set by Dai Rees of Wales. Christmas shot a 33-33 to set an amateur scoring record for the same Loch Green course.

Although the first two days' scores are discarded and the field of up to 120 successful qualifiers will start from scratch in the first round of the tournament proper on Wednesday, Palmer and Nicklaus were confronted with elimination if their scores did not improve Tuesday.

Snead, who putted beautifully, was jubilant about his round. "I'm bloody satisfied with that score," he beamed. "I'd be stupid if I wasn't. I misjudged a few clubs but otherwise everything was okay."

Won't Blame Ailments

Palmer, however, was extremely downcast about his score, although he refused to blame it on any of his ailments.

Palmer strained a muscle in his hip while practicing in the morning. He passed that off as "nothing at all."

However, his wife, Winnie, said he was much more disturbed by an upset stomach resulting from something he had eaten or drank. "I thought at one time I would not be able to play," Palmer said. "I took something that made me feel drunk when I went out to the first tee."

Little Follows Snead

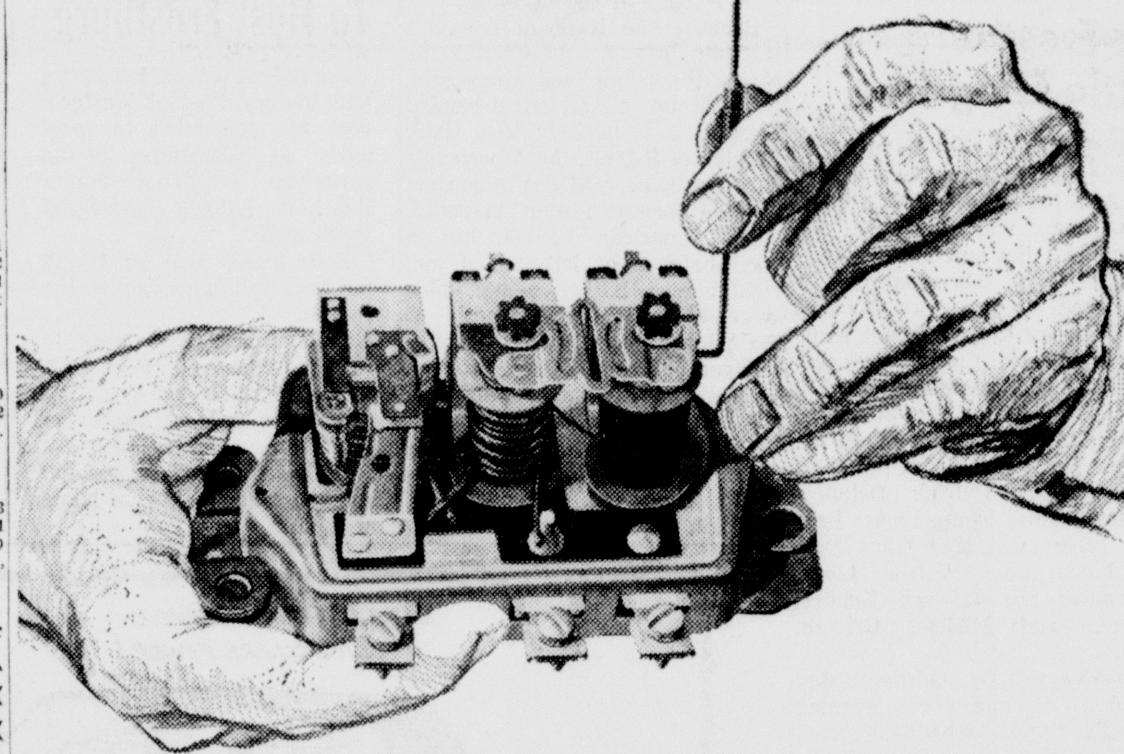

Next to Snead, the best American score was a 37-34-71 by Gene Littler of Spring Hills, Calif., while Bill Johnston, a U.S. tournament pro from Phoenix, Ariz., had a 38-34-72. Both played at Loch Green.

The other Americans with a 50-50 chance of qualifying for the first two rounds of the tournament were: Richard Davies of Pasadena, Calif., the 1962 British Amateur champion who shot a 38-36-74 at Loch Green; Don Essig III of Indianapolis (38-37-75 at Troon), John Hardy of Bakersfield, Calif. (39-36-75) at Loch Green; Phil Rodgers of LaJolla, Calif. (38-37-75 at Troon); Tom Fraser of Washington, D.C. (41-34-75 at Loch Green); and Paul Runyan, the world Seniors champion from LaJolla (40-36-76 at Troon).

Harrison Victor

BETHESDA, Md. (AP)—Vitus Harrison of Richmond, Va., unseeded but considered the player to beat, ousted fifth-seeded Buddy Goeltz of Bethesda, 1-6, 6-1, 6-2 to advance Monday to the quarter finals of the Middle Atlantic Tennis Championships.

Romney And Shepherdstown Dispute Claim As West Virginia's Oldest Town

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — The oldest town in what is now West Virginia, Shepherdstown, will observe its 200th anniversary in October.

Historians thus may be neutral and attend both celebrations.

From an official record view-point, the rival claims of Shepherdstown and Romney as to being the oldest incorporated municipality in West Virginia appears to be a tie.

The governor of Virginia, from which West Virginia was formed, signed the charters of both towns on the same day, Dec. 23, 1762. They are located about 50 miles apart in the northeast corner of the state.

Each is featuring in promotion of its bicentennial celebration the claim to being oldest.

The present name of Shepherdstown was acquired in 1820. It first was known as Mecklenburg and then as Shepherd's Town. It dates its founding to 1734 when Thomas Shepherd obtained a grant of 22 acres along the Potomac River.

Romney developed on the site of Fort Pearsall, built in 1756 as a defense against Indians. Its historians locate the first settlers there in 1738.

Romney will get the jump on the birthday celebration. It will be held Aug. 8-11.

Shepherdstown's will be Oct. 12-Nov. 30.

Highway Probe Starts Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—An investigation of rights-of-way acquisition in West Virginia will start Tuesday by House investigators in their probe of federal highway activities.

Chairman John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., of a House Public Works subcommittee said the situation in West Virginia was largely a case of incompetent appraisers.

The appraisals, he said, were handled in slipshod manner.

The Bureau of Public Roads, he added, knew about these appraisals and called attention to them, but nothing was done to correct the situation.

A committee aide said the West Virginia hearings will require 7 or 8 days. Between 25 and 30 witnesses are expected to be heard.

Land Suits Filed For ABL Expansion Job

$111,525 Deposited For Six Tracts

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP)—The federal government filed condemnation proceedings Monday to obtain 1,150 acres for expansion of the Navy's Allegany Ballistics Laboratory in Mineral County.

The contract went to the Hercules Power Co. of Wilmington, Del., which operates the laboratory for the Navy. The location is at Rocket Center, near Cumberland Md.

U. S. Attorney Robert E. Maxwell filed the condemnation suits in U. S. District Court here and deposited $111,525 of government funds with the court clerk. Six tracts of land are involved. The owners have 20 days in which to appear.

Appeals Court Upholds Law On S&L Regulation

General Assembly Enacted Measure

By TOM SEFFY

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The constitutionality of Maryland's savings and loan regulatory law was upheld Monday by the state's court of appeals.

The seven-member court, in an opinion written by Associate Judge Hall Hammond, said, "there is no provision in the Maryland Constitution forbidding the legislature to act on the subject matter of a referred law either during the period between its referral and the vote thereon or after approval or rejection by the voters."

"(The state constitution) expressly permits the passage of a law . . . which takes effect upon its passage and is not suspendable by referendum proceedings, provided it be approved by three-fifths of all members elected to each of the two houses and be declared to be 'an emergency law and necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health or safety,'" the court said.

Maryland's present regulatory law of the savings and loan industry was enacted as an emergency bill during a special session of the General Assembly in 1961.

A similar measure, passed a couple of months previously during the regular 1961 session, had been petitioned to referendum which delayed its enforcement power.

The high court's ruling affirmed circuit court orders which placed First Continental Savings and Loan Association and Freestate Savings and Loan Association into receivership. First Continental has since been ordered dissolved and its charter revoked.

The action was taken by the lower court under provisions of the law passed during the special session.

First Continental, appealing from Montgomery County Circuit Court, asked whether there was evidence to justify the appointment of a receiver, whether the association had its constitutional rights denied when the lower court refused to hear its arguments, and whether the regulatory law itself was illegal.

The associations charged specifically that passage of the law during the special session was "a specious attempt to circumvent the constitutional right of referendum."

They argued that no emergency existed for the Department of Assessments and Taxation to ask that they be placed in receivership without a jury trial and that the court should have decided if there was an emergency.

The corporations said further Albert W. Ward, director of the department, was illegally named to administer the new law because it was passed during a special session. State law provides that no new jobs can be created under emergency measures.

The court, in orderly fashion, refuted all the complaints of the association.
